CITY WIFE SLASHED, BATTERED TO DEATH

Murder Count Faces Husband Found in Strait

Chester Pupkowski, 48, was charged with murder last night six-and-a-half hours after police burst into his quiet home at 128 Clarence street to find the slashed and battered body of his wife, Cecelia, sprawled on the kitchen floor.

While one group of police investigated at the house a second squad was pulling Pupkowski from the waters at Holland point where he had been found beating his head against a log.

"Shoot me, shoot me!" he urged Cpl. Joseph Barlow, who waded into the chilly sea to pull him out.

First hint of the tragedy came at 2.45 p.m. yesterday when neighbors heard wild screams from the Pupkowski home.

Then Chester Pupkowski, smeared with blood, hurried from the house, stumbled down the steep path to the Holland point beach, and waded out to sea.

'I'M GOING TO DIE'

Three boys on the beach shouted at the man as water reached his neck, but he yelled back: "No, I'm going to die anyway!"

One-armed Ernest Busst, sawing driftwood on the beach, dropped his saw and rushed to the sea's edge where Pupkowski struggled, beating his head against a log.

"Come out!" shouted Busst. "I want to die!" Pupkowski answered.

Busst, unable to pull the man to shore with only one arm, sent a boy for police, who arrived almost immediately.

A neighbor, George Warwick, 122 Clarence, was standing with a friend in his driveway at 2.45 p.m. when he heard the screams from Pupkowski's house.

"Mrs. Pupkowski screamed blue murder for five seconds, but then everything was quiet," Mr. Warwick said.

'I CALLED POLICE'

"I called the police when I saw Pupkowski come out of the house and hurry down the street.

"I climbed in my truck and followed him down toward the beach. There was blood on his face. Several people stared at him.

"He was half running and half walking, and he kept looking straight in front of him."

Twelve-year-old Pat Burton, 314 Huntington place, was lying on the beach enjoying the sun when he saw Pupkowski reach the edge of the sea and wade in.

"He went right on in until the water was up to his neck," the boy said.

"Then he began kicking around in the water. We pushed a log out to him, but he didn't seem to see it.

"He drifted in with the tide and

Mother Lay Dead... ...In Silent House

Violence Comes To Clarence Street

By G. E. MORTIMORE

Clarence street in James Bay is a trim decent byway lined with old houses and apartments.

Mr. and Mrs. Pupkowski at 128 Clarence were among the quiet residents of a drowsy neighborhood.

Few of the other people who lived there knew the Polish couple's tongue-twisting surname, (pronounced "Poopkoska") or even their Christian names — Chester and Cecelia.

Bill Todd, 129 Medina, lived across the back fence from the Pupkowskis for more than a year, and never had occasion to exchange a word with them.

"I've just seen them, never talked to them," said George Courtis, who has lived across the street for more than a year, at 125 Clarence.

"Sometimes I see him out there in the yard, piling the wood, a short fellow with glasses. He never says anything."

"This is a very quite street," said Mrs. W. A. Wilde of 116 Clarence. "Everyone keeps to themselves. She seemed a nice woman. Their little Milo is a funny boy . . . I think he was terrified of his father. The man was the type you wouldn't talk to. He wasn't friendly with anyone."

Their son Milo, 8, is a pupil at South Park school.

About the only people in the neighborhood who knew Mrs. Pupkowski were Mr. and Mrs. Pruno Pronebner, 540B Niagara street, at the corner of Clarence and Niagara.

Both Mrs. Hedy Pronebner and Mrs. Pupkowski worked at the Empress Hotel. Mrs. Pronebner works in the coffee shop. Mrs. Pupkowski was a vegetable cook in the kitchen.

"She was very nice and very kind," Mrs. Pronebner said. "A hard worker. He was ill. She supported the family. They came from Germany. She's Polish. She had another boy who died in Germany."

She Was Always Tired

"She was pretty tired all the time," Mr. Pronebner put in. "She worked morning and evening. She worked somewhere else on her days off. She had to meet the payments on the house. They moved in last year and I heard they were buying it."

They said they greeted Mr. Pupkowski now and then, but he made no sign that he had heard, so they stopped trying.

"I've seen him working, but I didn't talk to him," Mrs. Pronebner said. "He was quiet. She never introduced us to him."

And so the quiet Polish couple went about their business: the husband silent, unfriendly, moving about the yard of the old yellow and brown house with head down, greeting no one; the wife working hard, sometimes at two jobs, to keep the family going; the little boy Milo, small for his age but lively; not on very close terms with other boys and girls in the district.

Mr. Pupkowski collapsed on the street just over a week ago and was taken to St. Joseph's hospital. He was believed to have suffered a heart attack.

He was examined by a doctor who had never seen him before, and kept in the hospital under observation. A psychiatrist also saw the patient, who seemed to be "in a nervous state."

Mr. Pupkowski was discharged from the hospital Friday because he had no apparent heart disease.

George E. Warwick, who lives with his father, A. C. Warwick, at 122 Clarence street, next door to the Pupkowskis, told of two happenings that seemed to show that all was not well at his neighbors' house.

George Warwick said the little boy Milo came over to borrow a flashlight, which he called a "battery." The house was locked, and he wanted to get in through the basement, but he seemed afraid. So George Warwick went with him, and helped him get in.

Another time, Chester Pupkowski asked George Warwick to call the police because "there's two bandits in the house."

"He was waving a big long pole. I called the police. Then he wanted me to tell the cops what had happened. But I didn't understand him.

"There were no bandits in the house."

In the big, steamy kitchen of the Empress Hotel, Mrs. Pupkowski's fellow-employees were expecting her in to work at 5.30 p.m. yesterday as usual. "She works a split shift," said Peter Pizag, 415 Heather.

"She seems to keep cheerful, even though she told us her husband was in hospital," said John Berkshire, assistant night chef.

They didn't know that they had seen the stout-hearted Polish woman for the last time.

On the porch of the old yellow and brown house which Cecelia Pupkowski had struggled to buy, a policeman stood guard.

Cecelia Pupkowski's body was inside. Along Clarence street, where nothing ever happened, neighbors stood outside their doorways, exchanged hushed comment. Children gathered in knots. A detective emerged carrying something in a cardboard carton.

And then two ambulance men carried out a blanket-shrouded figure on a stretcher, and drove away from Clarence street.

Canucks Here Tuesday

Hot Cougar Squad Grabs Third Win As Pelletier Shines

Victoria Cougars last night became the first club to qualify for the best-of-seven final in the Western Division of the Western Hockey League.

Getting a great performance from goalkeeper Marcel Pelletier, the Cougars defeated the Royals at New Westminster, 3-1. It was their third straight victory in the double round-robin series and assured them of no worse than a point tie when the remaining two games are completed.

Royals have one win in three games and the champion Vancouver Canucks have lost two games. Canucks play here Tuesday night and at New Westminster Wednesday night. If the two clubs should wind up in a point tie, the club with the most goals will meet the Cougars. Canucks can make it by winning both their games, Royals by defeating the Canucks.

If the Cougars defeat the Canucks Tuesday and the Canucks then beat Royals Wednesday, goals scored will decide. (Complete details Page 10.)

Fluoridation Wins Vote Nine to One

PORTLAND (AP) — Practising physicians in Oregon favor by a 9 to 1 margin the fluoridation of drinking water supplies to reduce tooth decay in children.

Results of a statewide survey on the question were announced Saturday by the Public Policy Committee of the Oregon State Medical Society. The survey indicated that 1,081 doctors favor fluoridation, 116 oppose it and 10 are "undecided."

Immigrant Stabbed, Dies; 'Giant' Held

By WILLIAM MARSHALL
Colonist Correspondent

VANCOUVER—A 29-year-old Belgian newcomer to Canada died in hospital from deep knife wounds late yesterday.

Police said Raymond Duchateau, of 891 Chilco street, was stabbed in the Rogers hotel beer parlor by a man who had been sitting at the next table.

SUDDEN ATTACK

They said Duchateau had been talking animatedly in French with a number of French and Belgian friends when the man suddenly jumped up from the next table and plunged a knife into his stomach. The man had taken no part in the discussion at Duchateau's table, police stated.

An 18-year-old suspect described as "a giant, well over six feet tall," was arrested and held for investigation shortly after the 4 p.m. stabbing.

Police said the suspect left the hotel in a cab shortly after the attack took place and was traced through the cab driver's report.

No reason for the assault was known last night. Criminal investigations branch detective sergeant Charlie Campbell, in charge of the investigation, said the knife used was still being searched for.

Harding Puts Iron Curfew On Cypriots

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Field Marshal Sir John Harding Saturday night ordered an ironclad curfew on the 13 main towns and cities of Cyprus as this rebellious island approached the zero hour of Greek Independence Day celebrations.

The British governor imposed the curfew, effective from 4 a.m. Sunday until further notice, with the intention of firmly preventing any outbreak of violence on the 135th anniversary of Greek independence from Turkey.

Upward of 160,000 persons were placed under virtual house arrest by the order. All persons in the 13 towns and cities must stay indoors during the curfew.

All vehicles were banned from the streets.

'Bridey Murphy' Probe Made Public

Ever since the provocative story of "The Search for Bridey Murphy" rocked North America, readers have been waiting for an on-the-spot check of the facts in modern-day Ireland.

The check has now been completed by a competent reporter, William J. Barker of The Denver Post, and a series of articles starts today in The Daily Colonist, where the Bridey Murphy story was told for the first time in Canada.

"The Truth About Bridey Murphy" today is on Page 16.

'Good Neighbors' Meeting Monday

WASHINGTON (CP)—President Eisenhower on Monday will open with Prime Minister St. Laurent and President Adolfo Ruiz Cortines of Mexico a two-day conference which is being advertised officially as a good neighborly, get-acquainted parley.

The three heads of government, meeting Eisenhower's suggestion, will get together late Monday at White Sulphur Springs, West Virginia resort town nestled in the Alleghany mountains about 250 miles southwest of Washington.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

"YOU condemn Grace Kelly for her harsh treatment of the press," writes a reader whose signature I can not decipher.

"I feel that you have overlooked one factor—the impertinence of some American reporters.

"As we all know, the American people, who claim to be so completely democratic, are probably the most royalty-conscious nation in the world. Some of them were bitterly disappointed when Mrs. Simpson failed to make the grade to the British throne.

"Now that an American girl is about to sit on a throne, no matter how insignificant, they will expect the affair to outdo Barnum and Bailey.

"Having been conditioned by certain so-called reporters to hear and read the intimate details of the lives of film people, they would probably expect to have from the Ss. Constitution (by radio-telephone) a complete day-by-day record of Miss Kelly's words and facial expressions—the brand of toothpaste she uses and how often she brushes her teeth—descriptions of the trousseau lingerie, etc. . . . not to mention how soon she hopes to produce an heir.

"In Europe such publicity is considered (and properly so) to be in the worst possible taste. Perhaps Miss Kelly is only trying to conform to European standards. After all, she will have to live there.

"When our own revered and respected Royal family travel they are well protected from sensation-seeking reports, although that doesn't prevent the American press from publishing undignified nonsense. And what about Princess Margaret's recent notoriety?

"As to the commercialism of the beautiful coronation—didn't you get sick of the sight of the gaudy plates, mugs, biscuit tins, calendars and so forth?

"So don't feel sorry for the American press. Some of them ought to be 'supressed.' Frankly, I cannot picture you in one of Hedda Hopper's hats."

"Sincerely . . ." And here follows a squiggle, even less legible than my own.

"P.S. What will the Irish say if Britain doesn't send even an under-secretary to the wedding?"

I agree with my correspondent that all this yapping at the heels of princes, princesses and film stars is vulgar and sickening. However, the readers thirst for information about such people, so the newspaperman is bound to provide it.

Some reporters enjoy those jobs. Many of them, however, handle the assignment in the same fashion as the garbage man handles a trash-can—gingerly and without pleasure.

My point was that since the press had helped build Grace Kelly to stardom—whether she liked it or not—she owed it to the newspapermen to treat them with ordinary good manners. According to some accounts, she failed in this duty.

"B.C. Power Commission is publicly owned, it is true, but actually dominated and cunningly controlled by the B.C. Electric. . . ." asserts Ivan W. Hanchard of 1091 Joan crescent.

"These are the bright boys who are undermining our free enterprise and democracy here—not the uncouth communists as claimed—by their ever-aggressive greed and grasp for higher profits, more millions. . . .

"Just take a good look on some clammy Victoria night along the poor sections of the city. See many porch lights on? No. Go inside some of these big ugly houses and smell the damp cold, peer at the 15 or 25-watt lights.

"Why not 60 or 100-watt bulbs? Why not electric or gas heaters to cheer and warm the occupants? Because the rates are too high. They are prohibitive. Now let the so-called public relations boys whitewash their monopolists."

Messenger III Returns

Mission Voyage Honeymoon, Too

A tiny cabin in the mission boat Messenger III, which chugged into Victoria harbor yesterday after a stormy winter on the east coast of Vancouver Island, became a bridal suite for 26-year-old Rev. Earle Johnson and his young wife, Louise.

They were married last October in Toronto, Mr. Johnson's home city, just before embarking on a winter of bringing spiritual comfort to isolated communities of loggers, fishermen and Indians along the coast.

The voyage, Mrs. Johnson's first taste of the sea, proved to be a real gulp, with at least four bad storms.

"I certainly haven't had any fears, though," Mrs. Johnson said. "I found it more fascinating than frightening."

"She didn't even get seasick, which is more than I can say," added her husband.

Mr. Johnson has spent four years in the Shantymen's Christian Association boat.

BUNKHOUSES BEST

In logging camps, Mr. Johnson said, he often reached more men by "talking religion" in bunkhouses than by inviting the loggers to religious services.

Many times services would be conducted for a single lighthouse keeper and his wife, and he recalled singing hymns with one isolated man until 2 a.m.

Skipper of Messenger III is Harold Peters, sometimes called the "flower-picking missionary" because of his love for flowers.

He told of a funeral service conducted by Mr. Johnson on a point swept by snow, sleet and a 40-mile-an-hour gale.

"It was a problem," he said, "to tell them something encouraging with their sorrowing and the storm."

ALONE IN GALE

Shortly after New Year's Mr. Peters was alone in the boat, moored at Union Bay, when a 90-mile-an-hour gale whipped up. It began tossing the boat against the wharf, and Mr. Peters cast off, a job often difficult enough with three.

"I was certainly happy to get it out of the bay and in the clear," he said. "It was a good chance to practice what I preach—that in the time of trouble God will hear and answer you."

In the last 28 days coming down the Island, 30 services were held, some in bunkhouses, kitchens, community halls, private homes or just in the open.

"Some people," said Mr. Johnson, "get the idea that special places and times are required for worship. It isn't so."

A PADRE IN PRINT

By REV. WILLIAM HILLS

The novel "Vivian Grey" was published in England in April, 1826. A great deal of speculation arose as to its authorship for it purported "as a sort of Don Juan in prose" to deal with "portraits of living characters sufficient to constitute a National Gallery."

It also promised to deal with these contemporary figures in such a fashion as to "flutter the literary and political dovecots," as Sir Edward Clarke put it.

By and large, the critics fell in love with it until the name of the author leaked out.

When it was discovered that its author had written it before he had reached the age of 21; that it was a work more of imagination than of experience; and that the author's name was Benjamin Disraeli, pens were dipped in venom.

[illegible] was actually John Wilson, professor of moral philosophy at Edinburgh University) writing in "Blackwood's Magazine" castigated the future prime minister of Great Britain as "an obscure person for whom nobody cares a straw."

History, of course, has taken care of that philosopher's observation, but young Disraeli wilted under these attacks, had what we would call a "nervous breakdown" and took to travelling for his health.

Remarkable Statement

I have been re-reading "Vivian Grey" as a kind of literary recreation and never dreamed that I would use it in a column until my eyes fell upon a remarkable statement by Fred Bevis (as reported in Thursday's "Colonist") that "news is what the council decides" not what is said.

It reminded me that Vivian Grey had said: "I hate definitions" and then a hundred pages further on had given birth to one, namely that "experience is the child of thought, and thought is the child of action. We cannot learn men from books."

People don't like definitions—some call them dogma—and yet we cannot get along without them.

News, for example, is not what a council decides to let the public know about. That is propaganda which may be eather good or bad according to its purpose.

News is the factual reporting of what is both said and done on the part of a body which has public significance. In a democracy it is essential that a responsible press be accorded freedom to report the news with as little interference as possible.

That, surely, is the meaning of a free press.

Perhaps we need to refresh our minds with these words of John Milton:

"Where there is much desire to learn, there of necessity will be much arguing, much writing, many opinions; for opinion in good men is but knowledge in the making."

Can I find Christian Science for myself?

The steady growth of Christian Science has naturally caused many to wonder what it is that appeals to so many and whether it might be helpful in their own problems. Some have friends or relatives who are Christian Scientists and have inquired of them. But others prefer to look into the subject entirely for themselves and reach conclusions in their own way.

Garden Notes

Last Call For Seeds

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

They say confession is good for the soul. This being the case, I may as well come clean and admit the horrible truth—that when I offered free samples of Early Bush Beefsteak tomato seeds to my readers last spring, I didn't know for sure how they were going to turn out.

True, I had tried them the year before in my own garden, and raised the biggest, meatiest, most flavorsome tomatoes I had ever grown, but that was a pretty good year for tomatoes anyway. Last year I was scared stiff that the summer would be cool and dull, with early fall frosts, and that 6,000 readers who planted my seeds would be howling for my blood, with nary a tomato to their names.

One single year of growing isn't really an adequate test—it doesn't prove anything, and I understand the experimental station grows a new variety for three to five years before giving it their recommendation. I was, therefore, away out on a limb last summer with those Beefsteak tomatoes, and waiting with my fingers crossed for the reports from readers to come in.

The letters came in—and how! In all my years of gardening, I have never seen such a wave of enthusiasm for a new vegetable variety. Here are a few samples culled at random from my mail bag:

"I never tasted anything like the flavor of those big Beefsteak tomatoes. The plants started to yield ripe tomatoes in mid-August, and all through the late summer and fall we were eating tomatoes until they were coming out our ears."

"In all my life, I had never before grown a tomato from seed. We followed your directions implicitly, and out of 24 seeds, we got 20 healthy plants, which gave us far more tomatoes than we could use ourselves. They sure were good eating."

"The Early Bush Beefsteak seed was wonderful and gave splendid results. Toward the end of the season my husband picked them and wrapped them in paper, and stored them in a cool place, and we still have quite a few ripening (Dec. 9). I think we will have enough to do us until Christmas."

"My husband and I are both over 70 and live alone, so we didn't need very many plants. We gave away 15 plants, and from the six we kept, we had all the ripe tomatoes we could eat, and enough left over to share with our neighbors."

"If your Chili pepper seeds grow even half as well as the Early Bush Beefsteak tomatoes, I want some. We were the envy of our neighbors last summer."

"Being a busy farmer with 70 head of cattle to care for, I don't get much time for writing letters, but I couldn't let the Christmas season go by without telling you how much we enjoyed those wonderful big tomatoes."

"Ever since we came here from the East I have been trying unsuccessfully to grow Beefsetak tomatoes, as I think they have the finest flavor in any variety, but I could never get them to ripen in this cool climate until you came along with your early kind. They have exactly the same meaty flesh and wonderful flavor as the ones we grew in St. Thomas, Ont.

As there are so many other subjects which must be covered in a garden column, this is the last time I will be mentioning the Early Bush Beefsteak tomato until planting-out time in May. If you haven't already sent for your free sample of the seeds, you'd better get the letter away within the next few days, for this is the last call.

Use the coupon, and address your letter to M. V. Chesnut, The Victoria Daily Colonist, Victoria, B.C., enclosing a stamped envelope addressed to yourself. I'll simply slip a packet of the seeds into your envelope and mail it right back to you.

Dr. Hayes Heads City Society

Dr. Albert O. Hayes, an early oil geologist in the Peace River area, explorer, and author of several scientific publications, has been elected president of the Victoria Natural History Society.

Dr. Hayes was professor of geology at Rutgers University, New Jersey, from 1926 to 1951. He has explored for oil in B.C., Alberta, Ecuador, Argentina and Bolivia.

He is a life member of the Canadian and American Institutes of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers, the Geological Society of America, the Society of Economic Geologists and several other scientific organizations. He is also an honorary member of the Archaeological Society of New Jersey.

Other officers are P. M. Monckton, vice-president; Miss Irene T. Latimer, secretary and Mrs. Gladys Soulsby, treasurer.

Condition of eight-year-old Bobby Gunderson, Honeymoon Bay, was described as "improved" by an official at Kings Daughters hospital at Duncan last night. He and a companion were thrown from a school bus Friday, near Cowichan lake. Billy Janyk was released with abrasions.

Police are investigating how the emergency door opened.

They Saw Pupkowski Stumble into Water

Bobby Gladson, Dennis Todd and Pat Burton saw the distracted Chester Pupkowski stumble down the Dallas road beach, wade out into the water, then beat his head against a log moaning: "I want to die."—(Colonist photos by Jim Ryan.)

Ernest Busst looked up from sawing beach logs to see Pupkowski flailing in the sea. When the man refused to come out, Busst sent boys to phone police.

Woman Slashed to Death

a policeman (Corporal Barlow) came down and dragged him out. He said to the policeman, 'No, no, throw me back in again!'"

Others at the scene reported hearing Pupkowski pleading with police to shoot him. Police took the man to Royal Jubilee hospital where he was placed under sedatives and held under police guard until 9.30 p.m.

He was then removed to the city jail, where he was formally charged with the murder of his wife and locked up under guard.

Police investigating at the scene, under the personal supervision of Chief John Blackstock, Deputy Chief Harry Mercer and Detective Inspector Charles Webb, were confronted with a grisly scene.

SLASHED, BATTERED

They found Mrs. Pupkowski's body on the kitchen floor, her throat slashed, and her head battered and lacerated.

Injuries to the woman indicated that she had been the victim of a savage knife and club attack.

She was pronounced dead at the scene by Dr. Lloyd McNiven.

Signs of a bloody struggle were apparent in the kitchen and sitting room of the home.

The Pupkowski's only child, Milo, 8, was not at home at the time of the tragedy. Police later took him for shelter to a private home.

Little Mrs. Robina McGirr, 80-year-old pensioner who rented a room with the Pupkowskis, was strolling in nearby Beacon Hill park when the tragedy erupted.

When she returned at 3.10 p.m. and was told what had happened she murmured "Oh, how terrible . . . how terrible."

"I DO LIKE QUIET"

"This house was a little bit of heaven to me," she said. "It was always so peaceful and quiet. It was the quietest room I ever had since I gave up my own home. I do like quiet because I used to live on a farm.

"Mr. Pupkowski was always very polite but he didn't used to say anything. I thought he couldn't speak English."

Mr. Pupkowski had been released from a ward at St. Joseph's Hospital on Friday.

Deputy Chief Mercer said time of an inquest into the death will be set Monday. Mrs. Pupkowski's body was taken to the Thompson Funeral Home.

Air Search Slackens; Fliers Feared Lost

Sea mists and low clouds forced a halt to an air search over the Georgia strait last night as hope faded for the lives of two men missing since Thursday in an RCAF T-33 jet trainer.

Seventeen aircraft which flew over the Cortes island area 30 miles east of Campbell River in the hunt for the Comox-based jet were recalled because of bad weather.

Four ships, however, continued to search the Georgia Strait area where the jet was believed to have crashed.

Aboard the plane for a routine training flight from Comox were FO James E. Miller, formerly of Victoria, and FO G. S. Stubbs, formerly of Winnipeg. Both lived at Comox with their families.

"Nothing productive came from today's search," an RCAF search and rescue division official said last night.

"We followed several leads but they all cancelled out."

Search has been narrowed down to the Cortes island area, following many reports of residents that jibed with an original report Thursday from a commercial vessel that a "terrific explosion" and a "roar like thunder" had been heard.

The hunt will be resumed today if weather permits.

Reds Aim At World Jet Lead

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union has carefully laid plans to beat the rest of the world into the jet age of international civil flying, a top Soviet official indicated Saturday.

Marshal S. F. Zhavoronkov, bemedalled chief of the Soviet Union's civil airline Aeroflot, said huge jet commercial craft exactly like the one which took the Soviet security chief, Gen. Ivan A. Serov, to London have gone into mass production.

Zhavoronkov told reporters at a diplomatic reception that early production "bugs" have been ironed out and full-scale use of the plane is expected soon.

CAUSED SENSATION

The plane, known as the TU104, is the civilian passenger version of the Soviet air force's medium jet bomber which caused a sensation when it appeared over Moscow's Red Square on May Day two years ago.

It was first believed by Western military attaches that this was merely a prototype, but it has since become clear that military production is far advanced. Now, according to Zhavoronkov, civilian production also is well along.

The plane, reported capable of carrying 50 to 60 passengers at 500 miles per hour, is bigger and probably faster than Britain's projected Comet III which is not yet in production.

If production is going on as claimed it also puts the Soviet Union ahead of the United States where it is expected to be several years before civilian jets enter regular commercial service.

Wooden Leg Divorce Clue

LONDON (UP)—Alfred James told a court he first became suspicious of his wife when she asked him if the child of a man with a wooden leg would have a wooden leg, too.

Their landlord, Sydney Wolfe, has a wooden leg.

Wolfe and Mrs. Lorna James denied there was any affair before the James separated, but the magistrate said the question about the wooden-legged baby was "so remarkable that I think Mr. James would not have made it up," and granted a divorce.

Lawyers To Be Sued

TORONTO (BUP) — John Bassett, Jr., publisher of the Toronto Telegram, said Saturday he would take legal action against a group of lawyers who allegedly attacked a reporter and photographer.

The incident occurred early yesterday when reporter Andrew Macfarlane and photographer Geoffrey Frazer went to Osgoode hall to cover the story of the death of a 43-year-old law society clerk.

The clerk, Herbert Attwood, plunged 25 feet to his death in Osgoode hall when he stumbled over an iron balustrade.

Gasoline Theft

Robert Richardson, 18, 2923 Dysart, will be sentenced in Saanich police court Monday on charges of theft of gasoline under $50 value, and being a minor in possession of liquor.

He pleaded guilty to both charges Thursday and was remanded in custody for sentence.

The Issue Is Clear Cut

SOME 52 years ago the "new" bridge over the Gorge waters at Point Ellice was built to replace the "old" bridge which had collapsed on May 26, 1896, in a community-wide disaster involving heavy loss of life. Before that there were individuals to counsel delay; to say that the "old" bridge would serve; that Point Ellice was the wrong place. Successive councils up to 1896 had declined to take action. The breaking of the bridge at the end of a week-long Victoria Day celebration put a sudden period to that.

When, more than half a century ago, the "new" bridge was built it was designed for horse-and-buggy traffic, together with electrified street railway lines which crossed the structure to Victoria West and Esquimalt. It was not built for the heavy city water main which later was laid along one side of it near the beginning of the First World War. Through the years the pinning down of one side of the bridge by this added weight, the continual pounding of street cars running freely down the hill onto the bridge deck, and other causes combined to effect the serious displacement of one of the main bridge members. It shifted materially out of place. City engineer Preston sounded the first warning and was ignored. Four other civil engineers have substantiated the facts since. They added that the rivets in the box-girder form of construction are crystallizing, where they can be seen.

To its lasting credit, the 1956 civic administration of Victoria has brought this long wrangle to a head. On April 5 Victoria ratepayers will be asked to vote on the replacement by-law, already approved provincially. The by-law involves no borrowing, and the City has funds earmarked for the job. Long ago the structure should have been renewed to meet the conditions of today's heavy traffic. Not to go ahead now would be the height of folly. To get rid of the intolerable human risk, to play fair with Victoria West, and to face its own obligations squarely Victoria must act. That the replacement of the weakened bridge can be done from revenue without borrowing is the community's good fortune.

Military Street Names

OTHERS besides the Canadian Legion in Port Alberni will regret that residents of one area in that city object to the retention of street names like Dieppe, Somme, Mons, etc., to the extent that council has bowed to their wishes. A relic of a wartime military camp there, these are seemingly now out of fashion. No doubt a particular euphony is desired since the streets in question are to bear names having the suffix "wood," but it seems a pity to eliminate entirely all of the former names.

This is a much different mood from that which induced a Winnipeg street to be renamed Valour Road because its homes produced four Victoria Cross winners. Admittedly this was a unique distinction but names which have much moment in Canadian military annals have some claim to recognition too. No community can go far wrong in perpetuating one or two of them; many streets have been named after incidents or persons with much less reason. Perhaps other subdivisions in Port Alberni may make amends, however, for the Legion branch there has asked that some new streets be christened with the names of historic engagements.

Not that Victoria has much warrant for casting a stone, for commemoration of this nature here is none too noticeable either. Out of 1,200 or more street names in the Greater Victoria area only four—Vimy, Dieppe, Normandy and Caen—seem to have any connection with events involving Canadians on active military service. Yet the streets themselves sent thousands of men to defend them in the two greatest of all world conflicts. It would not do to make a city directory read like a military roster, but there should be room for some names that strike a grateful chord and remain as a lasting tribute to stout effort and sacrifice. These add interest to a city too.

Lack of Foresight

ANOTHER illustration of the difficulties the Dominion government creates when it goes ahead with federal building projects in urban areas without deference to local conditions has come to hand, this time from Nanaimo. "One of the worst mistakes ever made in Nanaimo" is an alderman's comment on the government's failure to provide for parking space in front of the new post office and federal building there.

Victoria is in correspondence with Ottawa over similar shortcomings in the project to replace the old post office building overlooking the Causeway. Apparently without ascertaining the views or wishes of the council for the city in which it intends to build, the government completed plans for construction neither in keeping with the surrounding architecture nor with traffic conditions. So it was also with Victoria's new post office, a fine structure shortsightedly put up plumb on the property line of one of the narrowest and busiest streets in the city, to create a whole new set of traffic problems which could have been avoided.

Imposing new government buildings are a welcome addition to any city, but care should be taken in the preliminary stages to guard against their aggravating existing problems, especially the perplexing one of traffic congestion. A little more co-operation in prior consultation with the local authorities should produce mutually satisfactory results.

If the Cap Fits...

By SETH HALTON

HUGH Ramsay, the young machinist who was defeated last December in his first try for aldermanic office in the city, is entitled to a lot of praise for his civic zeal. He is the man who conceived and organized the Victoria Civic Voters' Association which came into being last week.

Already it has been said that his motives are personal, that he wants to strengthen his position for this year's election.

I don't believe it for a moment. He is genuinely, refreshingly interested in the administration of the city's business and is trying to do something about it. He hasn't even decided, yet, whether to run for council again or not. I for one hope he does.

* * *

He's got the right ideas. Chiefly, he believes that the city fathers should start thinking 25 years ahead. Whether it's sewers, roads or off-street parking, he believes that an effort should be made to anticipate conditions 25 years hence and consider them in present planning and present expenditures.

He thinks, broadly speaking, that young men are more farsighted and aggressive than old, that they have less to lose by being decisive. He has advanced the thought, without in any way criticizing the present administration, that we should not elect aldermen over 40 nor a mayor over 45. Many people, myself included, will not agree with this. But nevertheless if Mr. Ramsay succeeds in getting more young people interested in civic affairs and willing to run for office he will have done a remarkably good job.

That, in fact, is the first objective of the new association. Mr. Ramsay wants to get people interested in running the $7,000,000 corporation that is the city of Victoria—not just young people but all people. He wants to re-establish that function of democracy by which we the people let our legislators know what we wish them to do.

It's a splendid idea and it might work. But there are a couple of big ifs . . .

If the association follows the advice of former alderman Brent Murdoch, who was the principal speaker at the meeting: "Don't try to high-pressure the council. There are 30 people here tonight but your city council was elected by 10,000 people."

* * *

The second "if" poses a more difficult problem.

It is that Victoria has more cranks, nuisances, meddlers and busybodies with persecution complexes per thousand of population than any other three cities, and a good number of them turned out for Mr. Ramsay's meeting. I'd say 33 per cent of the total audience fitted the category.

These people are the inveterate attenders of meetings—any meetings, so long as they are allowed in. For the most part they are both sanctimonious and quarrelsome. They can't get along with anybody and nobody can get along with them.

And every organization they become associated with disintegrates. Every dispute in which they become involved becomes a farce.

These are the people who will wreck Mr. Ramsay's organization, unless he can get rid of them. And the labbrious process of democracy makes that difficult.

One could name names, but there is no point to it. If the cap fits, wear it!

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

I BELIEVE it's a libel on a fine big bird that the ostrich buries its head in the sand thinking it is thereby hidden, but most of us adopt the same general idea in avoiding the unpleasant.

What the eye doesn't see the heart doesn't grieve for, we say, and by the same token we fancy trouble will disappear if we don't look it in the face.

This is such a vexed world with dissent on every front page in the country you might think belligerency was our middle name, yet we shy away from annoyance. Actually we all prefer peace even if appearances are against us.

* * *

It can be a hypocritical bent, though, as Bishop Shean made clear the other night over the air. We are so ostrich-like we hypnotize ourselves into smugness.

He didn't put it quite so bluntly—although the same clergyman can be plenty blunt—but that was the theme.

We adopt—and very easily too—the mood of the unco guid, so that when trouble strikes we hold up unctious hands and bemoan: "Why should I have to suffer this? What have I done to deserve such a fate?"

This was all part of the bishop's thesis that man's personal ills are a reflection of the physical world that contains him; and that it's his job to take on some of the inevitable suffering.

Aye, no matter how innocent he is, or thinks he is—or so I gathered.

* * *

The bishop made a striking reference to God in this connection. I suppose a bishop can talk more intimately about God than the ordinary layman. Only the negroes in the familiar folklore of the spiritual seem to have the capacity to regard their Creator with a homespun closeness of view; the rest of us are inhibited.

Anyway, Bishop Shean pointed out that if God had remained in his celestial sphere he would have been vulnerable to the rebuke: "What do you know of human suffering?"

And that, I suppose, would have let us off lightly or at least given us a good excuse for our shortcomings.

Such a thunderbolt, however—the bishop's term—could not be hurled because God in the person of Christ had taken on human ills to the absolute limit of sacrifice.

There's not much room left for us to play the ostrich, therefore.

He was the only person also, the bishop added in pungent fashion, who ever entered the earth to die; everyone else does so to live.

* * *

Since man is of the earth as well as of its troubles I hope you won't think this story of little Johnny out of context. Johnny was in a querying mood.

"Mother," he asked, "is it true we all come from dust?"

"Yes, Johnny," she replied, "it is."

"And when we die do we all go back to dust?"

"Yes Johnny, we do."

"Then you'd better run upstairs and look below the bed, mother, for someone's either coming or going."

Bishop Shean didn't tell that story, although he often betters it by one of a similar kind.

If it has any application, however, perhaps it is to emphasize that man and the world are indivisible. If human suffering is general, then, no one can rightly say he isn't his brother's keeper.

He may not want to be, but willy-nilly he is at least in part. Which I suppose means we shouldn't ignore the tribulations of others as none of our business. But unfortunately . .

There's a touch of the Pharisee about most of us, I fear.

Letter from London

How Helpless We Really Are!

By RICHARD L. THOMAS, Daily Colonist Correspondent

WHEN Belfast had its electricity blitz this month and all power stopped with the result that all-electric housewives became helpless, electric trolley buses stopped in the street just where cut power left them, telephones started fading away as the emergency batteries started giving out and the banks could not even add to your overdraft because the electric computing machines did not work—there were some words of wisdom spoken which, as usual, earned some laughter.

The speaker was an elderly gentleman who had rejoined a trolley bus about to start after the strikers had decided to resume work after 12 hours. He commented to the world at large: "When I was a boy this could not have happened. We managed very well without electricity. Our parents will be revolving with laughter in their graves at the mess progress has landed us in!"

The Belfast electricians certainly added experience to the theory of dependence. Most of us have a sub-conscious realization of our dependence on electricity, especially if the light goes out because some idiot has put his pick through a cable or because a motorist tried conclusions with a transmission pole. But we are apt to forget when efficient gentlemen manage to restore the power somehow within a few minutes.

But Belfast citizens had a wider view. They found water trickling out of the taps because the pumps were not operating to maintain pressure, cinemas shut and newspapers late because electric pot heaters had left linotype metal solid instead of molten, radios silent and when dusk fell many streets without light. There was rejoicing that some of the "antiquated" gas lighting still remained in parts of the city. There was danger of the city's sewage disposal system failing, and cross-channel steamers went back with cargo they had brought from England because wharf cranes were not working. Factories were silent.

It will no doubt stagger the present generation to realize that an electricity strike (over a four-cent-an-hour wage increase) could bring a modern city to a stop, close factories, make 100,000 workless and hundreds of other people walk to the work that was not there—without a hot breakfast because the electric stoves would not provide heat. It could not have bothered their grandparents because, for all practical purposes, electricity was in just about the same stage as atomic power is today.

It does, however, provide a commentary on modern living. Most of life's troubles, as a philosopher wisely said, are caused by the desire to acquire things which our parents never knew. It also served to emphasize our dependence on others instead of ourselves. Manpower has been replaced by electric power, from power-driven screw drivers to accounting machines, and we have used it to replace gravity in water and sewerage, messy steam boilers, and most other things.

* * *

The position was underlined again in the revised cost of living index which has been prepared by the Board of Trade. We have reached the point where Her Britannic Majesty's Imperial government has decreed that television involves a cost of living and that it is more important to have nylons than to eat turnips. Indeed whereas mother enjoyed a bit of rabbit every now and then (the cost of which was allowed for in the index) her son has been provided with a second-hand car in his cost of living; and I am greatly relieved to know that wherever my pay is linked with the index (and nearly 3,000,000 Britons have wage agreements which move up or down with the index) I will receive a cent or two representing cost of plastic washing-up bowls, lipstick, face powder and nylons.

Interesting, too, is the fact that transport is included for the first time in the cost of living—also men's pyjamas (one assumes men have not worn them to date!) and the price of admission to dance halls. Tobacco and cigarettes are also essential to modern living. And although rabbit is out (possibly because of myxamotosis) rump steak is in; and, just to show how human our governors have become, canned dog and cat food also have been included.

I am not very ancient myself but I feel as though I have entered my dotage. There was a time when cost of living meant just that—a reasonable minimum for survival. You could live on rabbit. If you wanted rump steak you worked a bit harder. It was possible to live without television before it was invented (believe it or not) and I am old enough to remember ladies without nylons. Washing machines and telephones were not considered essentials.

All this sounds like heresy, doesn't it?

It is perhaps worth recalling that once upon a time there was a world in which so many modern essentials to living were unknown. It still lingers on in places. There was a time when people would converse like rational human beings instead of looking at you cross-eyed with television glare, when people would read books instead of having them read to them over the air. There was a time when people lived near their work and went for walks, when cats ate the family scraps and did not demand vitamized food from cans.

Today we are so busy rushing about that we hardly know what living is, still less the cost of it. It seems, indeed, that the somewhat conventional absurdity of watching a dog trying to catch its own tail has become an approved national pastime. Our washing machines, vacuum cleaners and electric mixers have given us so much leisure and we are so dumb that we do not know how to use it, so we add television to help us and pay our national insurance to make sure that we will get the glasses demanded by failing eyesight. And we are so desperately important that we must fly from London to Victoria in 18 hours whereas our hardy grandmothers took 18 weeks round the Horn in a sailing ship.

Progress is wonderful. So is the cost of living. Maybe there is a dog that caught his tail—and all that happened was that it hurt and he let it do again.

The moral of it all is: don't get muddled up in an electricity strike or you'll discover just what a helpless babe you really are.

The Packsack

Of GREGORY CLARK

IF YOU didn't know north from south you could still stand on the Canada-United States border, almost anywhere in its great length, and know which was Canada and which the States by the appearance of the scene. Except in very new areas in which the so-called ranch-style bungalows predominate, there is a striking difference between Canadian architecture and United States architecture, both in houses and larger buildings, whether factories, stores, churches or public buildings.

You would not suppose that two societies, two so-called cultures as closely linked by language, habits and customs as ours and the States could establish these distinctions. But it does not take a practiced eye to discover them. Or a practiced nose. The smell of a United States city is entirely different from that of a Canadian. This appears to be largely due to the tobacco they smoke. Their cigarettes and their pipe tobacco are distinctively scented.

There is even a difference in the street odors of Canadian and United States cities, perhaps due to some difference in cooking smells that escape from restaurants and quick lunches, perhaps due to some peculiarities of the gas they burn in their cars. I know that London has an acrid street smell unforgettably distinctive because of the exhaust from their buses.

There may even be distinctions in the sound of Canadian and United States cities, but this is probably carrying the inquiry too far. The distinctions in appearance and odor are clear cut, and indicate that Canada is not too easily invaded even by things as subtle as taste.

Stripped for Battle

PROVINCIAL police fought a strange battle with Doukhobors near Nelson 25 years ago last week. The weapons were itching powder on one side, a garden hose on the other.

Staff-Sergeant Stephenson and two other officers tried to make seven naked Doukhobor women get dressed. The women refused. A melee followed. The officers dusted the women with itching powder. Doukhobor men washed the women with a garden hose. The women turned the water on the police. But the police won, and sent the strippers home.

Cambridge defeated Oxford for the eighth successive year in the boat race. Seven were killed and nine injured in the wreck of the Royal Scot express near Leighton Buzzard, England.

FIFTY years ago last week a Dominion court of inquiry found the captain to blame for the loss of the steamer Valencia.

He was more than 20 miles off course when Valencia ploughed into the rocky west coast of Vancouver Island near Cape Beale, midnight, January 22-23, 1906.

The court of inquiry found that he had been negligent in failing to allow for the northward set of the current, and trying to enter the Strait of Juan de Fuca without making sure of his position.

In all, 126 lives were lost. The board of inquiry found that discipline in the ship's crew was not as good as it should have been.

The master of the Valencia was not there to answer the charges. He went down with his ship.

Captain J. C. Voss entertained an audience in the St. Francis Hotel with the story of his voyage in the canoe Tilikum from Victoria to London by way of Australia.

VICTORIA'S police force was dwindling away, 95 years ago. Men didn't want to be policemen at such a low salary, The Daily British Colonist complained.

The pay: for patrolmen, £4 10 shillings a month; for the sergeant, £6 10 shillings a month, both plus rations.

"The Cowichan Indians had a great blanket feast last week. They gave away 2,500 blankets, 50 guns and 3,000 tin pans, besides beads, pantaloons, etc. There were 200 canoes, and some 1,500 men, collected from various tribes from the Straits of Fuca, Gulf of Georgia and the northern coast."

Letters to the Editor

Treacherous Implications

I was glad to see letters showing realization of the treacherous implications underlying the apparently constructive and high-sounding Fair Employment Practices Act.

I, like others, thought it was a good one until I heard George Gregory, the one MLA opponent of it, underlined by a good Colonist editorial. Now we see it fatally enforced by the Labor Relations Board against the Christian Workers' Union, who do not agree to the tyrannical closed shop and the like in labor-management contracts. What irony!

The destructive consequences of this affect this union's members immediately, but the effects of enforcing that act and even just the fear of it will be felt increasingly by more and more people for a variety of reasons. I do hope this act will be repealed at the next session.

(Mrs.) ALICE COLCLOUGH.

Victoria, B.C.

Best Brains in Union

In some of the letters appearing in the Colonist recently the writers condemn all labor leaders as men apparently without ethics or other decent human attributes. In this age of negotiation and conciliation it would be contrary to all labor experience not to elect the best brains in the union to present their case to the employer. The men so elected must read up on all books dealing with labor-management relations and keep in touch with contemporary labor history in this and other industrial countries.

In time they become experienced negotiators and are supported loyally by the rank and file members at the annual election of officers.

Regarding the strike, it is one of the oldest weapons in the trade union armory. When men vote to strike it is with the full knowledge of all that it entails; it has always been the greatest strength of trade unionism, but is only used when all other means fail.

There should be no surprise if trade unionists sometimes express themselves antagonistic to the utterances of church leaders. During the long history of labor struggle for recognition, the church never supported labor, in any of the all-out struggles such as Taff Vale and Tony Pandy lockouts in Wales, and many other more recent fights between employer and employees.

Hospital Coverage

It is hard to understand why Mr. Martin regards as preposterous the suggestion of the federal government that servicemen be given free coverage from the day they arrive in the province without "ifs" and "buts."

In Britain all Canadians are given full health coverage without question from the day they arrive, but I received very different treatment when I arrived in B.C. from Britain in December, 1954, and even now the coverage I get is of a severely limited character.

It really appears that Mr. Martin's attitude is both preposterous and unrealistic.

Captive Wild Things

I notice Elizabeth Smith's letter regarding the caged birds in Beacon Hill park and agree with her to some extent.

I believe birds, especially regular cage birds, are quite happy in cages, it having been bred into them as you might say. But birds and animals having known freedom, to them it does not come easy, depending somewhat upon at what age they become captives.

If we are going to keep such things, why not do it on a larger and better scale for the ones we now have and may get. It would be better for the birds and for the name of our city. Vancouver has improved some of theirs nicely but should do more yet, especially for the bears. They have the acreage, too.

Then and Now

Isn't it amazing, the different attitude Mr. Gaglardi has towards his use of public transport than he and the Socred government took towards the use of public transport by the civil servants in the days when Social Credit was new and unsoiled.

FRANK SNOWSELL.

Dangerous Speed

In the so-called progress of this new age, the motor car has become one of a city's most urgent problems. To curb speed is a city's most urgent duty. One-way streets for old and narrow streets designed for man and beast are not the answer.

[illegible] fusing. The tourists curse the puzzling tangle of different lights and fear an accident. The pedestrian curses the car that turns with the green light; he also becomes confused and fears an accident.

It is a black spot upon any city for cars to fling maimed or dead men and women upon the highway and call it accidental. Prevent accidents by proper crossings upon the highways and the resident and tourist alike will not live in daily fear. Councils are voted into office by the voters and it is their duty to protect their people by preventive measures as simple as a band of white paint.

I call attention especially to Cadboro Bay road at Eastdowne where a dangerous curve menaces the public alighting from the Willows bus. Here cars race at 50 or 60 miles an hour, and the unlucky pedestrian finds him or herself in a new challenge with death.

ELLANORE PARKER.

Universal Cruelty

In his discussion of moral aspects that affect our health in the Colonist of March 22, Mr. S. A. Whitfield tells us that obtaining disease virus to benefit children from helpless animals savors of paganism and the dark ages. What Mr. Whitfield seems to have overlooked is the fact that all benefit, all food, all survival of any type or species of life on this earth depends upon inflicting death and suffering on whatever form of life that becomes food or in any way benefits another species.

If we plow a field or dig in the garden we cut in two countless helpless worms and destroy billions of many forms of bacteria. If we simply catch a fish we do so by hooking the helpless creature in the mouth, and we take mink and fox fur by using steel traps.

Had science not learned to combat disease germs by creating or obtaining other types of germs or bacteria capable of controling disease the human species could not have survived. And as it is we only survive through the use of — as food and as corrective medicine or as preventive bacteria — viruses, the use of DDT in controlling flies and other destructive pests and in such methods as pasteurizing which again destroys life wholesale.

Misplaced Blame

As I understand it, there is no reason in the world for the pasteurization of good milk, than there is justification for medical treatment of good water.

A royal commission on milk which has recently reported on unsanitary conditions existing in some areas of Fraser Valley, but not Vancouver Island, is a finding of fact which could and should have been brought to the attention of the milk board and department of agriculture. The fact that such conditions existed at all is not the fault of the milk producers on Vancouver Island, but of the milk inspection service. There is no reason why honest raw milk dairy farmers should be penalized for the neglects of the milk board.

Easter Treats at Stall

It was a big day for children at the surplus food stall yesterday. St. Mary's Women's Guild brought boxes of Easter treats. Mrs. Mary Williams, food stall coordinator, helps distribute them. More than 100 children and old-age pensioners were helped, and coordinator Mrs. E. E. Harper reported the stall was "cleaned out entirely," in one of its biggest days so far. Next stall day will be April 21.—(Colonist photo by Jim Ryan.)

Snow Batters U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) — The snow-weary Northeast was punched again Saturday by a spring snowstorm, its third in nine days.

Only just recovered from a one-two punch storm last weekend, the new storm was expected to dump between 12 to 16 inches of snow alone on southwest Maine.

The new storm forced cancellation of Boston's St. Patrick's Day parade for the second time; knocked out until next Tuesday the New England welterweight title bout between Walter Byars and Bobby Murphy in Boston; and halted horse racing at Lincoln Downs race track at Lincoln, R.I., for the ninth straight day.

Arab States Stall UN Peace Meeting

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—Some Arab states moved Saturday to postpone for a month the Security Council meeting on the Middle East scheduled for Monday.

The United States asked for the meeting to consider sending Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold on a peace mission to Israel and to Arab capitals. He was expected to leave week after next.

Syria and Lebanon planned Saturday to ask permission to participate in the council debate. Delegates Rafik Asha of Syria and Edward Rizk of Lebanon said they would submit separate letters to the council Monday. They must ask permission to enter the debate because their countries are not members of the council.

Asha said he had canvassed the council members on his plan and "I think there will be no opposition."

A British spokesman said "it would be very difficult to refuse" such requests.

At Beirut, the Lebanese capital, it was announced officially that there would be a request for a one-month postponement of the session. It was assumed the Arab states wanted time to consult on their stand.

Buck May Go

Canadian Reds Panic, Split As Line Shifts

By TOM GREEN
Colonist Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—The Canadian Communist party has been thrown into a state of alarm and despondency over the new campaign of systematic policy of character assassination of Joseph Stalin, it was learned here today.

It was said that the leadership of Tim Buck may even be in the balance as a result.

Buck, long-time head of Canada's Communists, is expected to return shortly from Russia, where he has been attending the Communist party congress. It was at this congress that Nikita Khrushchev denounced Stalin as a murdering megalomaniac, responsible for mass murders and purges and costly blunders during the past war.

BADLY SPLIT

Party members here are said to be badly split on which line to follow—the pro or anti-Stalin school.

They recall that Buck gave this eulogy at the time of Stalin's death: "If the people of Canada realized what they had lost in Stalin, tears would flow in the street."

Communists in Canada are now anxiously waiting to hear an explanation of the about-face in world Communism and the place that Stalin had in it.

It was stated that the party would try to play down the attack on their former idol. But in the past, Canadian Communists have faithfully followed the Moscow party line on such momentous changes of policy.

This is what happened in the case of the Russo-German pact before the war and on the expulsion of Yugoslavia's Tito. Canadian Communist's simply went along with the new line. On this change, they may wish to play the change down officially, however.

Mrs. Wanda Watson

Many Mourn 'Angel of Premier Mines'

Nurse, Benefactor

"The "Angel of Premier Mines," Mrs. Wanda Watson, was buried Thursday from Esquimalt.

Hundreds of old mining men passed through her care when she was in charge of the hospital at Premier, B.C. Some of them, who preferred not to identify themselves, came here to be pallbearers.

For several years she ran a coffee shop at 2607 Douglas street, Victoria. In 1954 she lost her husband, William Watson, and was seriously disabled by an accident that left her with a broken hip.

But she hobbled around, serving customers and remaining as cheerful as she had been in her nursing days. Last year she was forced to retire, and went to live with Mr. and Mrs. Bill Carver, Gorge road. She entered hospital last December, and died there March 20 after a lingering illness.

She was born Wanda Hooper, graduated as a nurse from St. Paul's hospital, Vancouver, where she met and married her first husband, Jack Crawford, a purser on Grand Trunk Pacific coastal ships.

She was an invalid for several years. In 1928 she went to Premier to take charge of the hospital. Her husband, Jack Crawford, died in 1934. She married Stephen Watson in Prince Rupert in 1945. They lived in Premier until 1948.

In 1939-45 she was active in supplying comforts to the forces and to friends in Britain. She was a great contributor of clothing and other comforts to the seamen's institute in Vancouver.

The crippled children's hospital in Vancouver was her favorite charity.

Surviving are two sisters, Mrs. J. Weaver and Mrs. A. Marshall, Lulu Island; a stepdaughter, Mrs. Walter Brewster, New Westminster, and a stepson, Arthur Watson, Victoria.

Vancouver Yachts Leading

The Royal Vancouver Yacht Club outpointed the Royal Victoria Yacht Club yesterday in the first day of the "Frostbite" home-and-home series.

The visitors scored 1,045¾ points against the Victoria club's 804¼.

It was a difficult day's sailing in light and fluky winds.

Top three Vancouver skippers in the Davidson class race were Bunny Whitcroft (115¼); Cec. Helmer (106) and Ace Lindsay (94).

Leading Victoria helmsmen were Roy Murdoch (94); Ned Ashe (88) and Ken MacLaren (80).

Esquimalt RCNSA defeated Discovery RCNSA by 95½ points to 80¼.

The regatta continues today.

FOE Members Take Office

The ladies auxiliary, Fraternal Order of Eagles, held their annual nomination of officers meeting recently, with Mrs. A. Smith in the chair.

Two new members, Mrs. R. Noble and Mrs. C. Harvey, were initiated.

Plans were discussed for a Mother's Day tea, to be held early in May.

Officers elected by acclamation were: Mrs. M. Carver, president; Mrs. E. Chalk, vice-president; Mrs. K. Kenyon, chaplain; Mrs. E. Lacey, conductor; Mrs. L. Hobday, secretary; Mrs. P. Jeeves, treasurer; Mrs. J. Champion, inside guard; Mrs. A. Biles, outside guard; Mrs. D. Kissinger, trustee (three-year term); Mrs. G. Holland, auxiliary mother.

Delegates to provincial convention, in June, will be Mrs. M. Hallam, Mrs. L. Wright, Mrs. E. Chalk, Mrs. L. Hobday, Mrs. M. Carver and Mrs. A. Smith.

To Make Money

Soft Hands, White Shirt Mark Big Chick Raiser

Look After Books

By ALEC MERRIMAN

James A. Flynn hatches 250,000 chicks a year at his Lakeview Poultry Breeding Farm near Duncan, but he doesn't consider himself a farmer.

There is plenty of room for expansion of the poultry business on Vancouver Island says James A. Flynn, who sells 250,000 day-old chicks annually from his Lakeview Poultry Breeding Farm near Duncan. Vancouver Island is now importing 50 per cent of its egg and fryer requirements, he says.—(Colonist photo by Alec Merriman.)

"Fundamentally I am not a farmer," he told The Daily Colonist. "In a sense I am a farmer because I make my living from the land and the 6,000 chickens I keep, but I am really a business man because I must pound a typewriter and keep accounts nearly 12 hours a day."

He says Duncan farmers criticize him because he hasn't calloused hands and always wears a clean white shirt and a tie.

Nevertheless he operates a $100,000-a-year chicken hatchery business with 1,500 regular customers, 99 per cent of whom are on Vancouver Island.

Mr. Flynn, a 34-year-old navy veteran, took over the old Solly farm at Duncan after the war and still breeds the Solly strain of New Hampshires and Leghorns.

"At first I was losing business by paying attention to chicks instead of accounts, but I have since taken a two-year accounting course and we are making money," he said.

The hatchery business is a year-round occupation, Mr. Flynn explained, and added that his 30 electrically-operated incubators, capable of hatching 2,000 eggs each at one time, haven't stopped running for six years.

In addition to hatching 250,000 chicks this year to be sold as day-olds, he will have 20,000 chicks to sell as started pullets (eight weeks old.)

As a new venture this year he plans to raise 20,000 chickens for sale as fryers, and roasters next year.

FLYNN LINE

Next year he will introduce the "Flynn line" of chickens, which he has developed over several years. They are an improved strain of Leghorns and he plans to have for sale about 1,000 pullet chicks each week.

Mr. Flynn boasts that the chick industry is the only industry that sells for lower prices than during the height of the depression.

"My prices are lower this year than they have ever been because we have cut costs tremendously," he said. "Our labor has been cut by automatic machinery and we have found a method of feeding and incubation by which our hatchability has increased by 10 to 15 per cent. Unsexed chicks sell for as low as 25 for $6.

A new venture this year, because the CPR has discontinued use of rail express on the Island, is the Solly Chick Express Service.

Special chick delivery trucks leave the hatchery for all parts of Vancouver Island every Tuesday and Friday. TCA Air Lines is used for all shipments off the Island.

In connection with the business Mr. Flynn runs a free advice service for poultrymen. "I want my customers to make money so they will buy more chicks."

Included on his staff are foreman Joe Bieling who is in charge of production and hatching, Harold Perry in charge of brooding, John Bowles, sales and service manager, Randolph Gure in charge of laying houses, Henry Inamasu, in charge of chick sexing, and Edward Gurz, training to be a brooder man.

Blitz Nets $2,500

PORT ALBERNI—A porchlight blitz netted over $2,500 in the annual Red Cross campaign here, with many suburban districts not yet heard from, Clyde Nicol, drive chairman, has reported.

Mr. Nicol said he was confident that the district's $6,200 objective will be reached.

NANAIMO—Daleno Leonard of Nanaimo and Walter Senini of Extension were both taken to Nanaimo General Hospital Friday after being injured in separate power saw accidents.

Both employees of MacMillan & Bloedel Ltd., Leonard was brought to the hospital at 4.15 p.m. and Senini at 5 p.m.

The two men sustained injuries to their hands. Leonard works at the Nanaimo Lakes division and Senini at the Harmac division.

Competes in Victoria

North Island Festival Won by Comox Club

ERRINGTON—The Comox Valley Drama Club won most of the glory in the five-day Northern Vancouver Island Drama Festival, which ended here last night.

The club's production "Brothers in Arms" was named one of the three best in the festival and it produced the best actor and best supporting actor.

Syd Williams, of Courtenay, was presented with the best actor award for his portrayal of a backwoodsman. Dennis Probst was named best supporting actor.

Another play by the club, "Voice of the People," won the best supporting actress award for Mary Anderson.

Best actress was Gretta Haworth, who played the part of Dorinda Carp in the Parksville players' production "The Jack and the Joker."

The three will compete in the Southern Vancouver Island Drama festival in Victoria in April.

They were presented for the second time at an honor performance here last night.

Best director award went to Hazel Ritchie of the Port Alberni group.

In the junior awards, Nicky Batt of the Parksville Junior High school was named best actor for his portrayal of a scribe in "Solomon's Folly." Best actress was Margaret Simpson, Qualicum Beach Junior-Senior High school. Leland Theis, of the same school, was best supporting actor. Best supporting actress was Marlene Lightheart of the E.D.A. Players, Juniors, Errington.

Four Men Charged With Nanaimo Theft

NANAIMO — Four men were charged here yesterday with breaking, entering and theft from the Nanaimo curling arena Friday morning.

Remanded until March 29 were James Thomas, James Frans Armstrong, David Allen Olsen and Donald Lambert.

Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts told the accused it was possible there would be a further remand. He set bail at $1,500 for the four accused with two sureties in each case.

All-Electric Sawmill Opens Next Month

LAKE COWICHAN—A new, all-electric sawmill of the Joginder Lumber Co., will begin production in April, with a daily cut of 20,000 board feet.

The modern mill, designed to use timber from the company's nearby logging operations, will replace the plant destroyed by fire last fall.

Ten electric motors will operate the hydraulic headrig, edger, conveyors, trim saws and heavy rollers. The present 120 by 25-foot mill housing will be expanded.

Education Workshop Draws 50

NANAIMO (CP) — About 50 principals and social studies teachers attended the annual Vancouver Island social studies workshop at the Senior High school here yesterday.

Delegates from all parts of the Island discussed a progress report on the proposed curriculum changes. A report on curriculum trends, as discussed at the Canadian Teachers' Federation, was to be presented.

Delegates will be asked to consider a resolution calling for the formation of social studies revision committees.

Boy Passes Bad Cheques

VANCOUVER (CP)—A 15-year-old ward of the Children's Aid Society has been arrested after attempting to pass three worthless cheques totalling $246, police said Saturday. The boy had attempted to buy clothes with cheques drawn on a non-existent bank account, said police.

The Viewing World

By John Crosby

Fred Allen—Dour but Gentle

Under a dour exterior, Fred Allen was the kindliest man imaginable. Swarms of out-of-work actors descended on him regularly for handouts which were never refused. There was one actor who put the bite on him every Sunday after church. One Sunday the guy didn't show up and Fred got so worried he went looking for him.

The radio feud between Jack Benny and Fred Allen was legendary, but actually the two men were close friends and their admiration for each other was boundless. But this didn't prevent them from heckling each other unmercifully on stage.

Once Benny was appearing on the Paramount stage and Allen sat in the front row and hurled one witty insult after another at his old friend. After one quip, Benny, nonplussed, waved a $20 bill at the audience and offered it to anyone who could top Allen's last gag. Instantly Allen was on his feet, topped his own gag with a better one, and walked up and claimed the $20.

* * *

Fred was a wit's wit. There is not a humorist alive who did not admire him extravagantly, but none imitated him because they couldn't. His was a wonderfully original and well-stocked mind and he had the gift of bringing two frightfully irrelevant things into the same sentence. It was the humor of the ludicrous and a very penetrating wit it was, but it does not reproduce well.

His humor was very much of the moment. I remember having lunch with Fred once just after the first atom bomb had gone off at Bikini and had proved to be a bit of a dud. I asked him if he'd heard the broadcast and he said, "Yes, nothing disappeared but the OPA." Well, the OPA had gone out of existence that weekend and it was a very funny remark then, but it doesn't make much sense today. I bring it up only as an example of the way Fred could take two totally unrelated subjects and combine them into one fast quip.

Even his prose style defied imitation. He had a horror of cliche and every sentence that came from his lips had a newly minted freshness that was unique, even among very literate men. To him, even "hello" or any other ordinary salutation, was a cliche and he avoided any form of routine greeting. He'd greet you, on say, a hot day with: "Its so hot out, I could take my skin off and sit around in my bones."

In his early days he billed himself as the world's worst juggler and he just about was. He'd keep dropping the Indian clubs and to cover his confusion he'd make wisecracks that would convulse the audience. Actually, Fred was the last of three great American humorists who started the same way. The other two were W. C. Fields, who was a little better juggler than Fred, but still no world beater, and Will Rogers, whose rope act was pretty fair, but not much better than that.

Fred's death came as a particularly terrible shock to me because he took such very good care of his health. He didn't drink or smoke and his diet was of such austerity that a rabbit would find it dull. In fact I always thought he'd live to be 103. His health faddism was a rich source of amusement to his friends. He had high blood pressure and he had consulted so many doctors and read so many books on the subject he knew more about it than they did.

Any sort of new medical fad would receive his most earnest attention. Once in Florida he stumbled on a cult that believed in fasting as a cure-all for everything. People subsisted on nothing but distilled water for weeks. Fred was fascinated by the project and its effect on the patients.

He was a very simple man. For decades although he was a millionaire, he lived in a little apartment on West 58th street. He used to eat lunch every day at the corner drugstore. He never owned a car and never learned to drive. It wasn't parsimony; it was simply that luxury didn't mean anything to him. He never got away from the common people and he had a wide acquaintanceship in his little neighborhood with delicatessen store proprietors, shopkeepers and local cops.

* * *

His kindliness was fabulous. Once a delicatessen store proprietor, a friend of his, lost his liquor licence because gamblers had been hanging out there. Fred bought the place, got a liquor licence in his own name and turned it over to his friend to run.

At the time of his death he was working on his autobiography and he kept looking up old friends of his vaudeville days for material. Every time he found one of these old chums, most of them down on their luck, it cost him the price of a new suit.

He loathed sham of any sort and he considered the broadcasting industry, which made him famous, full of it. He always regarded network executives as a bunch of over-grown office boys and he was incessantly battling them.

"If the United States can get along with one vice-president, I don't know why NBC needs 26," he said once. Among his other pet dislikes were Hollywood and southern California. "It's a nice climate," he remarked of California, "if you're an orange."

He also took a dim view of agents and he once remarked of his agent, "He gets 10 per cent of everything I get except my blinding headaches."

Years ago Fred was a pretty good drinker, averaging a bottle a day. The day prohibition was repealed he stopped drinking entirely, claiming that he'd drunk so much poison that the good stuff would probably kill him.

The end was sudden. As John Huston remarked after the death of his father, Walter Huston: "He was too good a man to be sick. When the time came, he just died."

'Petticoats Are Clean'

Unfit Parent Charge Makes Actress Mad

NEW YORK (AP) — Jayne Mansfield, bosomy Broadway actress, is indignant over her estranged husband's charge that she is not a fit and proper person to have custody of their five-year-old daughter, Jayne Marie.

"I'm a very stainless character, my petticoats are clean," she said. Miss Mansfield is suing her husband, Paul Mansfield, a Dallas, Tex., public relations man, for divorce in California charging mental cruelty.

In a countersuit he asked custody of Jayne Marie claiming his wife was unfit to raise the child. Apparently at issue are some semi-nude pictures of Miss Mansfield which appeared in the February issue of Playboy magazine. She said she posed for them to earn money while she and her husband were together.

"Those pictures in Playboy magazine I posed for to get milk and bread for the baby," she said. Miss Mansfield currently is appearing in the Broadway show Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter?

Titanic Disaster Kraft Show Topic

By ROY PARRETT

The biggest television sets ever built for a single TV production are being put together for Kraft Theatre's drama on Wednesday night.

The story, "A Night to Remember," is that of the sinking of the Titantic, luxury liner which went to the bottom of the Atlantic with a loss of 1,500 lives.

Seven cameras, 20 sets and 107 actors will be used to recreate the last hours aboard the Titantic as she rushed to her destruction on April 10, 1902.

The Wednesday night television production, based on the book by Walter Lord, will be seen on channel 4 at 9 p.m.

Music for the Easter season will be featured on Monday's "Voice of Firestone" concert as Metropolitan Opera soprano Eleanor Steber joins Howard Barlow and the Firestone Orchestra and chorus on channel 5.

Liberace will feature the Easter theme on his programs on channel 5 and 12 this week. Today's Salute To Easter will be on channel 5 at 3.30.

The piano program will be repeated on channel 12 at 10 p.m. on Wednesday.

* * *

Monday night film entertainment includes the Claudette Colbert picture, "I Cover the Waterfront," on channel 12 at 6.30 p.m. and the Jackie Cooper comedy, "Stork Bites Man," at 10.30.

The heroic story of fire-fighting during the London blitz unfolds in the James Mason picture, "The Bells Go Down," channel 4 feature at 11.05 Monday night.

James Mason is also featured in the channel 12 movie, "The Man Between," a story about Berlin's black market, Tuesday at 10.30 p.m.

The gripping story of "Genghis Khan" is told on the channel 11 Late Show on Tuesday.

Other feature movies on channel 12 this week include "Private Life of Henry VIII," on Thursday; "Steel Trap," on Saturday; and the African picture, "Cry the Beloved Country," on Sunday next.

* * *

The new "Trial" will be seen on next week's CBS show, seen here on channels 11 and 12.

"The Greatest Show on Earth," an hour-long performance by the Ringling Bros.-Barnum & Bailey Circus, will be seen on the same channels on April 3.

There will be changes made on "What's My Line?" during the next few weeks. Garry Moore will sit in on tonight's show in the late Fred Allen's spot. Replacements are also being sought for Dorothy Kilgallen and Arlene Francis, both of whom are leaving soon to attend Grace Kelly's wedding.

Fourth Top Song Written as Poem

BY JIM TAYLOR

His name is Frankie Lymon, he's 13 years old, and he is the composer of the fourth most popular song in the country.

Lead vocalist in a group of youngsters called the Teenagers, Frankie parlayed a talented pen and a quavering tenor into the hit recording of "Why Do Fools Fall in Love?"

The song started out as a poem written for Frankie's English class, but the five teenagers started fooling around with it—recorded it, and waited for the money. They didn't wait long.

They are now mixing a career with school work. They have cut one record a week since the end of 1955, and have about a dozen waiting for release.

Best of the lot may be a tune called "Am I Fooling Myself Again?"—words and music by Frankie Lymon, age 13.

* * *

IN THE GROOVES: Last week's remark that rock and roll is dying out brought a phone call from an Oak Bay High student who said the student body there is in violent disagreement . . . The Crew Cuts have reached another milestone in their career. They now do beer commercials on TV.

GOODMAN LATE: "The Benny Goodman Story" won't be here until sometime in April. Starting next week, this column will run a contest with passes to the show, plus a few records, as prizes. So brush up on your music . . . Billy Eckstine, singing as he used to when "Mr. B." was a national favorite, does a fine job on his latest, "The Bitter With the Sweet" . . . another vocalist returning to his old style is Frankie Laine, whose "Hell Hath No Fury" is only spoiled by its loud opening . . . In answer to a letter, Johnnie Ray's first recording was called "Tell the Lady Goodbye" on the Okeh label.

Watch for a fine music movie late this year, "The Jazz Train," starring Frank Sinatra and Sammy Davis, Jr. . . . James Dean is being "immortalized" with a dirge-like disc entitled "The Ballad of James Dean." . . . Don Cherry's latest is called, fittingly enough, "Wild Cherry."

PICKS OF THE WEEK: "The Magic Touch" by the Platters; and "A Man Is As Good As His Word," by the Lancers.

Experience Sets Quality Seal . . . . . . On City Operatic Production

Talented Pair Skipper 'Pirates' Crew

By ERITH M. SMITH

Experience counts—and a rare quantity of experience is showing the way during present rehearsals in Victoria for Gilbert and Sullivan's "Pirates of Penzance."

Members of the Victoria Gilbert and Sullivan Operatic Society are appreciating more and more that their musical and stage directors for the forthcoming production are qualified to an unusual degree.

One of these two was known to them—fellow member Jim Yeomans who has appeared in several of their recent shows. The other was a comparative stranger—stage director Arthur Budd who first appeared in their midst at a mid-winter meeting.

THREE-DAY STAND

Now the two are working together, shaping up the group's spring production for its appearance at the Royal Theatre, April 30, May 1 and 2.

Jim Yeomans was born into a musical family at Huntingdon, England, his mother having been for a time a professional singer. Jim's first attempt at singing came when, at the age of nine, he became a choir boy.

The First World War interrupted his music, which he rather neglected until he was 26. Meanwhile he'd served in the British Army later becoming a chartered accountant at Manchester.

In 1926 Jim moved to Buenos Aires, where he became assistant organist in the Anglican church and did as he says, "a fair amount of musical comedy and concert-party work," in the Argentine capital's British colony.

ON TO CHILE

Five years later he moved again to Santiago, Chile, where he remained until 1948. Here, too, he lost no time getting into the musical swing of things. Once more he became organist in the city's Anglican church, and once more he acted in, produced, stage-managed plays, musical comedies, light operas.

He came to Canada in 1949, settling in Vancouver's West Point Grey district (more Gilbert and Sullivan, naturally), until 1952 when he came to Victoria to work for the provincial government.

Jim's wife is a former Langford and Victoria girl. Born Mabel Wade, they met in England just after the First World War and married in Buenos Aires in 1926. They have four children — three married, the fourth a brand-new registered nurse.

Arthur Budd's story also begins in England. But it is all theatre.

The stage director of "Pirates" was all but born backstage, his family having been in English theatre for about 300 years. His mother and father, incidentally, were with the Fred Karno shows at the same time as Charlie Chaplin.

When Arthur was only seven he was apprenticed, in the fashion of the times, to a circus. His time was divided three ways: tumbling, riding, school. A new law passed when he was 11 changed this, however, and he had to settle down full-time to schoolwork.

FIRST STAGE PART

Arthur's mother wanted him to be a civil engineer but he had other ideas. When he finished college in 1928, he auditioned and won a place in the musical "The Blue Train," starring Jack Hulbert and Cicely Courtneidge, then touring the provinces.

That was the beginning of a long series of musicals and, later, films, in which Arthur Budd (or, to use his English stage name, Buddy Crawford) appeared in chorus, bit parts, juvenile leads, as dance director, as producer.

These were all before the Second World War, and stars with whom he appeared included George Murphy, Maurice Chevalier, Lupe Velez, Ruth Etting, Danny Kaye, Jack Buchanan, Sally Grey and Stanley Lupino. Most of those were London shows, with at least one in Paris.

During the war Arthur served with the RAF, instructing at Patricia Bay Air-port and at Assiniboia in Saskatchewan before going to Burma.

VAUDEVILLE ACT

After the war he co-produced the famed "Gang Shows" in London then went to Black's Scandals as producer, dance director and juvenile lead. For a time he went into variety with a musical vaudeville act, then back to the London stage in "Bobby Get Your Gun," "Follow the Girls," "Hellzapoppin."

For a time he was dance director at the J. Arthur Rank school of acting, and later he appeared in movies for both the Rank studios and Warners'.

Another turn at variety and musical comedy followed before he came to Victoria last July.

Why Victoria? Well, during the war he'd met and married a Victoria girl—Helen, daughter of an air force padre, Sqdn.-Ldr. M. McDonald. Mrs. Budd just thought she'd like to come home again, so they did.

The cast of "Pirates" is confident. They know their directors know their stuff. The rest is up to them.

Hollywood of Canada

City Envisioned As Movie Capital

Victoria's climate could make it the Hollywood of Canada, according to a contender for Victoria's television channel.

Bill Rea, president of Interna[illegible] Corporation Ltd., said films will be produced in Victoria if his bid for the station is successful.

Live telecasting studios, planned for 3025 Blackwood street, will include facilities for making TV films of all descriptions, Mr. Rea said on his departure for Ottawa last week.

Mr. Rea's bid for a TV licence and that of David M. Armstrong of CKDA, will be heard by the CBC board of governors Wednesday.

LITTLE RAIN

"It has often been said, and it is true, that Victoria could be the Hollywood of Canada," Mr. Rea said. Both the mainland and the city of Victoria have the mild climate required for making movies. But Victoria has the advantage, with only about 28 inches of rainfall annually, he said.

Film programs and film commercials would be turned out by his television company.

Mr. Rea is completing a two-year course at the Brooks Institute of Photography at Santa Barbara, Calif., which includes all phases of movie-making.

"Santa Barbara is very much like Victoria in many ways," Mr. Rea thinks. "They are both tourist centres."

The production of TV films here could greatly add to the city's tourist business, he believes.

'Pop' Season Ends

Symphony Orchestra Thanks Public With Music for Its Loyal Support

The Victoria Symphony orchestra ends the busiest of its 16 seasons with concerts in the Royal Theatre this afternoon and tomorrow night.

Conductor Hans Gruber said yesterday the popular type program is the orchestra's way of "thanking the public for the fact that on a per capita basis, we have the largest symphony-going attendance in Canada."

At each of the eight pairs of concerts, he said, "we have had not less than two per cent of the population of this area.

TICKET TALLY

"We have sold some 25,000 tickets in the past year, including the summer concerts at Butchart's Gardens — representing half the population of Victoria and more than 20 per cent of Greater Victoria.

"At least 10 per cent of the people have heard the orchestra at least once during the regular season," he added.

The "pops" program includes Smetana's "Moldau." Rimski-Korsakoff's "Capriccio Espag[illegible]

SOFT STUFF

Soft eiderdown feathers come from the eide, a large sea duck of the arctic and antarctic.

[illegible]nole" and Tschaikovsky's fourth symphony.

Every woman attending either of the two concerts will receive an orchid from Hawaii.

SOLOS SLATED

Half a dozen members of the orchestra have solo parts in the program and before each concert, orchestra member Dorothy Hopgood will conduct a 15-minute program by her Central junior high school group, judged best orchestra at the Greater Victoria music festival last week.

The 35-member school orchestra will play part of Schubert's "Tragic Symphony," a Bach gavotte, a Bach fugue and a Mozart sonata.

J. F. K. English, Symphony Society president, will speak from the stage on orchestra plans. He will announce that the symphony next year will step up activity from eight to ten pairs of concerts and will play from three to five student programs.

Terrible Sir Thomas Storms into Toronto

TORONTO (BUP) — Terrible - tempered British conductor Sir Thomas Beecham made a spectacular entry to Toronto Saturday night.

When he got off the train from Montreal at Union Station he roared at waiting photographers: "You want my picture? Well, what are you waiting for? Hurry up and take it."

A photographer asked Sir Thomas if he wanted to straighten his collar and loose tie. "No," shouted the 76-year-old conductor.

When he last visited Toronto, Sir Thomas said it was "a sad city where the people look depressed and distressed and go about with their heads down."

Noted Singers Coming Soon

Jean Macleod, noted Scottish contralto who sang to a capacity audience here in 1950, returns for a concert in Victoria High school auditorium at 8 p.m. April 6.

She will be assisted by Victoria baritone John Dunbar and accompanist Mrs. Pierre Timp. Proceeds will augment the building funds of St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society.

Tickets may be purchased at Kent's Ltd., Horseshoe News stand and Edinburgh Leather Shop.

A Famous Artists recital, by tenor Jan Peerce, will be held in Royal theatre April 3. Program ranges from Verdi's "Questo Quella," from "Rigoletto" and songs by Mozart and Brahms to popular ballads.

Blind pianist Mary Munn of Montreal and Calgary appears in Victoria high school at 8.15 p.m. Thursday, on behalf of the new Christian Science nursing home. Program includes music of Chopin, Bach, Mozart, Franck and Albeniz.

Madeleine Till of Sidney will be featured as "Today's Guest" in a piano recital on radio station CBU at 1.45 p.m. Tuesday.

Fox theatre's foreign film fare and Tillicum Outdoor's bargain deals head the week's movie news.

Fox re-opened Friday after a brief closure, with plans to stage conventional films Wednesday to Saturday, with such continental fare as Italy's "Rigoletto," Russia's "Romeo and Juliet" and Germany's "Golden City" on most Mondays and Tuesdays.

Bill this week is the German musical comedy, "Masquerade in Vienna" tomorrow, and "Desert Song" Wednesday.

COMEDY FARE

Tillicum Outdoor will show three feature films, led by "Doctor in the House," and two cartoons Thursday to Saturday. The annual Easter egg hunt will be held Friday, beginning at 6.30 p.m., rain or shine.

The outdoor theatre goes on a six-day-a-week basis April 2, with "Trouble in the Glen."

★ ★ ★

Beautiful British actress Kay Kendall is featured in both movies at the Oak Bay — "It Started in Paradise" tomorrow, and "Constant Husband," with Rex Harrison, Thursday.

Academy awards certainly help a movie around on a second or later run. "Marty," showing with "Pat and Mike" at the Plaza, is here for the fourth time. It may run two weeks and all because it gathered four Oscars. Next is "Mr. Hulot's Holiday."

OSCAR SERIES

Dominion may follow Oscar winners "East of Eden" and "Mr. Roberts" with another award film, "Rose Tattoo."

Every theatre has good entertainment. Odeon shows the thriller, "Night of the Hunter" tomorrow, and the Jack Hawkins comedy, "Touch and Go," Good Friday. Royal has Bing Crosby's latest, "Anything Goes," Friday.

Capitol shows Walt Disney's "Littlest Outlaw" with the cartoon "Johnny Appleseed" Friday. Atlas has "Deep Blue Sea" tomorrow and "Rains of Ranchipur" Thursday.

CHURCH PROGRAMS

Religious organizations mark the week before Easter with four musical and dramatic programs.

Robin Terry directs a reading of Henri Gheon's "The Way of The Cross" in St. Barnabas' Anglican church this evening. Alice Waddell, Roberto Wood and Malcolm Hamilton are among soloists in a special program in First United church at 7.30 p.m. today.

In Metropolitan United church, singers Margaret Abbott, Grace Adams and Harry Johns, and organist Dorothy Mallory are soloists with the church choir in a concert at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

Bach's "St. Matthew Passion," will be presented in Christ Church Cathedral at 8 p.m. Good Friday. Graham Steed directs soloists Edward Oldfield, John Bray, Eleanor Duff, Hazel Sherratt, Audrey Saville and Dorothy Mallory and a 17-piece orchestra.

'ARMY' PLAYERS

Victoria Salvation Army drama group will present the scriptural play, "The Ninth Hour," in the citadel at 8 p.m. Good Friday and Saturday, and at 8 p.m. April 2 in Elk Lake Baptist church.

★ ★ ★

Three outstanding plays in the recent Greater Victoria drama festival will be repeated in Oak Bay junior high school auditorium Wednesday evening.

They are the drama "Vigil," by North Saanich high school, and the comedies "Shock of His Life" and "Stolen Prince" by the host school.

Victoria Theatre Guild presents Aldous Huxley's "The Gioconda Smile" in Langham Court Theatre at 8.15 each night this week.

Royal Tour Films Too Dull for U.K.

LONDON (UP)—Three of Britain's biggest theatre chains will not show a film of Queen Elizabeth's tour of Nigeria. They said it lacked public interest.

The only company to book the film was an American one, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. MGM will show it at the only cinema they have in Britain.

The three companies that turned it down, Odeon, Gaumont, and ABC, control 1,100 theatres throughout Britain.

The one-hour color film, called "Nigeria Greets Her Queen," was made by the federal information service in Nigeria. A spokesman said the three companies told him the film was "too long and not timely."

Macbeth Next For Oliviers

LEICESTER, England (AP) — Sir Laurence Olivier has decided to make a film of Shakespeare's Macbeth with his wife, Vivien Leigh, playing Lady Macbeth. Alan Dent, who adapted all Olivier's Shakespearean films said the film would be in color and production would start next year.

Substitute Goalie Helps Rangers Crack Jinx

New York Ranger player at left appears to be dancing with joy as Rangers were in the process of upsetting Canadiens 4-2 at Montreal Thursday to even semi-final Stanley Cup hockey series at one game each. However, Canadiens stepped back in front in best-of-seven series by whipping Rangers, 3-1, at New York last night.

One of stars in Ranger victory was goalie Gordie Bell, who was called up from Three Rivers Lions to take over from Lorne Worsley after Rangers were drubbed, 7-1, in opening game. Bell, being congratulated by Worsley (right), who was back in nets last night, brought good luck to the Blueshirts, who won their first game in Montreal since January 30, 1954. (CPC.)

Cougars Use Breaks, Defence To Get Past Royals Again, 3-1

NEW WESTMINSTER—Backed up by a great performance by goalkeeper Marcel Pelletier and playing a sturdy defensive game and waiting for the breaks, Victoria Cougars qualified for the best-of-seven final in the Western Division of the Western Hockey League here Saturday night by defeating New Westminster Royals, 3-1.

It was the third straight success for the Island club in the double round-robin series between the first three clubs in their division. Two games remain to be played before the Cougars' opponents in the divisional final is known.

The final will probably start Friday night, at Vancouver if Canucks get in, and at Victoria if Royals get the other berth.

Pelletier, who gave only four goals in the three playoff games played by the Cougars to make nine goals by his teammates enough for three victories, was at his best Saturday night.

	GP	W	L	OT	GA	Pts.
VICTORIA	3	3	0	0	4	6
New Westminster	3	1	1	0	3	2
Vancouver	3	0	2	1	2	1

Last night's score: VICTORIA 3 at New Westminster 1.
Remaining games: Vancouver at VICTORIA on Tuesday, Vancouver at New Westminster on Monday.

ROYALS BATTLE

The colorful French-Canadian, who set a new league record for shutouts this season, stopped 39 shots, 14 of them in the third period, as the Royals battled desperately to get back into contention after dropping behind, 2-0, in the second period.

New Westminster's Bev Bentley, on the other hand, had only 23 shots and handled 20 of them.

Royals had a good territorial edge through most of the game but the Cougars cashed in on their chances. They were under pressure in the second period when Jim Robertson lofted one in from the side after getting the puck from Don Chiupka.

IDENTICAL PLAY

A little more than two minutes later, Doug Anderson clicked on an almost identical play, with linemates Colin Kilburn and Doug Macauley drawing assists.

Royals missed a real chance early in the final period when Bill Davidson and Arnott Whitney drew penalties only 79 seconds apart.

Bill Dobbyn, Nelson Bulloch and Kilburn held the fort for the 41 seconds Royals had a two-man edge and Doug Macauley joined them when Davidson returned to the ice. Pelletier made an outstanding save from Hal Tarala just before Davidson returned.

INSURANCE GOAL

Bruce Carmichael got an insurance goal at 6.44 of the third period, chipping in a rebound before Bob Dawes spoiled Pelletier's shutout bid at 8.55.

Royals pulled Bentley with more than two minutes left in a last try but couldn't break through. Anderson flubbed a chance on the open net when he broke away with Kilburn.

Cougars still have to play the Canucks at Memorial Arena Tuesday night, but while they would much prefer the Royals as opponents in the final, result of Tuesday night's game isn't likely to make much difference.

If Canucks win, they would still have to defeat Royals Wednesday. If Canucks lose, they would probably still reach the final by winning from Royals.

GOALS TO COUNT

That would leave both clubs with two points and the decision made on which club has scored the most goals. Inasmuch as Canucks have scored only one goal less in two games than Royals have in three, about the only thing that would help the Royals much would be a high-scoring shutout for the Cougars.

Then, if Canucks were to win by one goal Wednesday, the decision would be made on which club has allowed the fewer goals. At the moment, Canucks have permitted two fewer goals than the Royals.

Warriors, Stamps Both Make Finals

It will be the Winnipeg Warriors and the Calgary Stampeders, who finished one-two in the league schedule, in the finals of the Eastern Division of the Western Hockey League.

Both clubs reached the finals in straight games, eliminating Saskatoon Quakers and Edmonton Flyers, respectively, in the best-of-five semi-final series.

Warriors made it last night at Saskatoon, trimming the Quakers, 6-3. At the same time, the Stampeders disappointed a near-capacity crowd of 6,500 at Edmonton by besting the Flyers, last season's play-off champions, 5-2.

Both winning clubs deserved their victories, holding a noticeable edge in play although Quakers did outshoot the Warriors, 29-21.

Quakers stayed close for two periods, starting the third trailing by 3-1. But two quick goals, just 29 seconds apart, in the first part of the last period put Warriors out of reach.

Rookie Mike Nykoluk and Hugh Barlow led the Warriors, Nykoluk, who has played his best hockey of the season during the playdowns, scored twice and assisted Barlow on his two goals. Barlow also had an assist.

Barlow's second goal came in the last minute of play as the Quakers sought to make up a 5-3 deficit with a sixth attacker replacing goalkeeper Emil Francis.

Don Raleigh, who left immediately after the game to join the New York Rangers, and Jack McLeod each had a goal and an assist for Quakers.

Although outplayed, Flyers started the last period only one goal behind at 2-3, but Jim McFadden and Ray Barry scored goals 91 seconds apart midway through the period to put it out of reach.

It is expected that the best-of-seven final will start either Tuesday or Wednesday night.

Needles Captures Derby; Shows Hoofs to Champions

Florida champion Needles proved himself the king of the three-year-old racers Saturday as he left the champions of two coasts in his wake with a tremendous surge and won the $145,400 Florida Derby in track record time.

Needles' flashing speed through the stretch carried him to a three-quarter length victory over Count Chic from California. Calumet Farms' Pintor Lea finished third, another length and three-quarters back.

Needles, favored to win the Kentucky Derby, went to the post as the 8-5 favorite of the crowd of 24,191. He ran the mile and one-eighth in 1.48-3/5 to shave one-fifth of a second off the Gulfstream park record.

Terrang, winner of the Santa Anita derby, finished in 13th place.

Billy Maxwell piled up a five-stroke lead in the $15,000 Miami Beach open golf tournament yesterday with a three-under-par 69 for a three-round total of 198.

The red-haired professional had whipped par on the 54 holes by 18 strokes going into today's final round. Gardner Dickinson, Jr., who tied Maxwell in the opening round, when both shot a course-tying record 64, finished with a 67 yesterday for a total of 203.

Tied for third were Jimmy Demaret and Pete Cooper with 204s.

Maxwell complained of a case of pressure jitters and complained that photographers made him miss "at least two puts that I should have sunk."

"Tell those guys I'm no Cary Middlecoff," he snapped. "They make me nervous!"

Jim Tang's

TACKLE BOX

Sports fishermen have been maintaining for some time that there is a large decrease in our salmon population. It appears now as if fisheries officials have finally recognized what could become a serious situation, and the first thing they did was to cut the limits allowed sports fishermen by 20 per cent. That's something like trying to cut down traffic accidents by banning the use of motor scooters manufactured in 1921.

A wire-service story from Vancouver yesterday stated that A. J. Whitmore, chief fisheries supervisor for the province, has announced that sports fishermen caught about 270,000 salmon and grilse in B.C. tidal waters in 1955. It was further stated that the sports salmon catch totalled "more than five per cent of the total catch of commercial troll fishermen."

* * *

And so we have the incongruous situation of conservation efforts being made by cutting sports limits by 20 per cent when it is officially admitted that sports fishermen are responsible for only about five per cent of the total salmon catch.

That's 20 per cent of five per cent and one need not be a mathematician to figure out that won't amount to much, particularly as it must be obvious that a 20 per cent cut in limits won't be anywhere close to a 20 per cent cut in the total sports catch. Only a small percentage of anglers ever score limits and the actual cut in the sports catch will be closer to two per cent than 20.

There is no quarrel here with the thought that sports fishermen certainly should be part of any conservation program, and it is agreed that sports-fishing catch limits are still reasonable despite the cut. But why start with the angler? It seems only reasonable that if some form of conservation is needed, and it obviously is, it should start with the commercial catch, which accounts for about 95 per cent of the salmon, and with doing something about preserving spawning grounds.

* * *

Our fisheries are certainly important to our economy but it is a pity that no one in authority appears to recognize that sports fishing has become a big industry in itself. The amount of money spent by the angler in getting his five per cent and the amount of money spent in other ways by the tourist attracted here by our sports fishing adds up to a sum which can not be too far away from the total value of our commercial pack of coho and spring salmon.

One of the reasons given for the cut in sports limits was that about twice as many people are fishing now than 10 years ago and some sort of control was needed. That's fine, but it must be also realized that there has been a corresponding increase in the number of commercial fishermen and that new devices have made it far easier for commercial boats to find runs and, once found, to practically clean them out. Why not some curb on the commercial fisherman, such as a limit on each year's total pack?

* * *

Significantly, in the announcement of the cut in sports limits it was stated that the new limits were decided on "after reviewing the reaction from a wide cross-section of interested individuals, including members of sports-fishing organizations, fishermen's unions and personnel of the protection and scientific branches of fishery administration."

The fact that members of fishermen's unions, which means commercial fishermen, should be asked for their views on what constitutes a fair sports catch is one that shouldn't escape the attention of any angler. More than anything, it shows the way the wind is blowing. Unless the sports fisherman starts making some noise there will be more and more restrictions and, eventually, the need of a licence.

The time to start making a noise is now. If angling associations would take some of the effort and time they put into building up more and more fishing competitions and use the resources at their command, not the least of which are potential votes, they could head off what is bound to come if they don't start fighting. It certainly isn't good enough to say, "Well, we can still fish anyway."

Victoria Team Wins Game, Loses Series

Victoria "B's" downed UBC Thunderettes, 49-48, in the second game of a two-game, total-point series for the B.C. coast senior "B" women's basketball championship, but lost the title by a series score of 114-93.

The "B's" lost the first game of the series, 66-44, Friday night. The Thunderettes now meet either Penticton or Kamloops for the B.C. championship.

In a preliminary contest, Cordova Bay juvenile boys beat Brentwood, 31-16.

Scorers follow:

Thunderettes—Louie, Heal 9, Ann Bonswell 8, Trudy Mounce 8, Pat Goodwin 14, Colleen Kelly 11, Marian Matheson, Elizabeth Dean, Elma Gavin, June Mitchell. Total—48.

Ferrari Wins Sebring Race

SEBRING, Florida (UP)—World champion Juan Manuel Fangio of Argentina and his Italian driving partner, Eugenio Castellotti, won the International 12-hour Grand Prix of Endurance Saturday in their Ferrari sports car.

SITUATION SERIOUS

NANAIMO (CP)—The number of moose in B.C.'s interior has increased so much there is a danger of them dying from starvation, Dr. C. C. Lindsey, member of the B.C. Game Commission said the situation indicates that hunters may be allowed to take more and even kill females.

OLYMPIC CHAMP DIES

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Fanny Durack, first Australian woman to win an Olympic title and the greatest woman swimmer of her day, died this week from a heart attack. She was 64. She won the 100-metre freestyle at the Stockholm games in 1912, and her heat time of 1 minute 19 4-5 seconds was then a world record.

Ontario Eliminated

B.C. Whips Manitoba In Olympic Playdowns

VANCOUVER (CP)—Ontario Nortowns were eliminated from further contention while British Columbia Totems remained victorious in the second round of the double round-robin Olympic basketball trials here Saturday night.

Ontario went down to a 64-55 defeat by Alberta Towne Hallers to suffer the second loss of the series and automatic elimination.

In the second game B.C. drove to an 81-76 victory over Manitoba Buffaloes, their second straight victory of the series.

The playoff for the Canadian amateur basketball crown and the right to represent Canada in the Melbourne Olympics continues Monday night with Manitoba facing Alberta and B.C. getting a bye.

The feature attraction before a wildly cheering crowd of 4,000 at the University of British Columbia gymnasium was the Manitoba-B.C. game, mastered by a free-wheeling West Coast quintet which played flat out.

John McLeod, starry UBC centre, topped the scoring for the Totems with 23 points followed by veteran Hoopster Bob Pickell with 18 points.

But the West Coast crew had no cinch against the fast-breaking hustling Manitoba squad sparked by Carl Ridd and guard Mike Spack, each with 18 points.

In the Alberta-Ontario fixture the Towne Hallers redeemed themselves after a loss to Manitoba Friday night, behind the playmaking of guards Don McIntosh and Art Kruger.

Ontario—Monnot 19, Ellis 2, Veres 6, Osborne 9, Sulik 12, Boguski 6, Thomas 4, Garbuti 9, Maynerick 6, Harris 0, McKenzie 8, Potter 1. Total 55.

Four Rinks, One from City, Undefeated in Ladies' 'Spiel

Three Vancouver rinks and a Victoria entry were still undefeated when the last draw was completed last night in the annual ladies' bonspiel at the Victoria Curling Club.

The four rinks—skipped by Mrs. E. Miller, Mrs. G. McCrackin and Janet Smith of Vancouver and Mrs. Mary McKay of Victoria—were in the fours of the primary Eaton's event. Mrs. Miller had won four games, the other three rinks had all won three.

Semi-finals were also complete in the second event, the Hudson's Bay Trophy, with two Vancouver and two Victoria rinks coming out to the prizes. The Vancouver rinks were skipped by Mrs. C. Wright and Ruby Minke and the Victoria rinks by Mrs. G. Walkey and Mrs. Betty Gallaugher.

In the Scurrah's event, Mrs. E. Weese of Vancouver and Mrs. M. Sands of Victoria were in the fours and Mrs. R. Miller and Mrs. A. Speedie of Vancouver, Marg Richardson of Victoria and Mrs. Ida Coates of Parksville were out of the eights.

Eights were also complete in the fourth event, the Sears Trophy. Rinks left in this event were Ruby Bell, Mrs. Edith Pick, Mrs. G. McLure and Ella Harding of Victoria, Mrs. Marg Cutts of Vancouver, Pauline Kjernisted of Port Alberni, Mrs. A. Theien of Nanaimo and Grace Johnstone of Chilliwack.

Altogether, 22 of the 38 rinks which started were still in play. All remaining quarter-final games will be played at 8.30 this morning. Semi-finals are scheduled for noon and finals at 3.30 this afternoon.

PAWTUCKET, R.I. (UP)—Lincoln Downs cancelled all races Saturday because of the New England snowstorm.

The race track had been scheduled to resume operations after being shut down since last Saturday because of the two previous storms.

Clippers Trim Trail, Win Coy Cup Series

Nanaimo Clippers defeated Trail, 6-5, at Nanaimo last night on a goal by Don Ashbee with seven seconds remaining to win the Coy Cup and the B.C. Intermediate championship.

Ashbee's goal capped a wild last-minute scoring spree in which three goals were scored in a space of 46 seconds. Trail, down 4-1 going into the third period, rapped home three unanswered goals to tie the score at the 13.03 mark.

Angelo Defelice put the Clippers ahead, 5-4, at 19.07, but Krit tied the score again at 19.17, and set the stage for Ashbee's winning effort.

Dr. Larry Giovando, MLA for Nanaimo, presented the Coy Cup to team captain Arnie Dugan at the conclusion of the game.

Straths Flash Power; Humble Shores, 3-0, In Cup Soccer Match

By JIM TAYLOR

Victoria Strathconas did all their scoring in the last 18 minutes of their match with North Shore United yesterday as they defeated the Nanaimo club, 3-0, to enter the semi-finals of the Province Cup soccer competition.

About 500 people were at Royal Athletic park to watch the Straths, playing under the best weather conditions they [illegible] season, record their fourth straight win [illegible]. Two goals were scored by Andrew Young and one by [illegible].

CONTROLLED PLAY

Strathconas controlled play through most of the game and enjoyed a decided territorial edge in the first half when they were constantly charging in on limited goalkeeper Joe Travis. However, Travis was equal to the task of stopping the Straths in the early stages and he made some fine saves one a leaping effort to turn the attempts of a [illegible] a certain goal.

A stream of wild scoring in the last half kept the Straths [illegible] as wide open [illegible] scattered over the crossbar or wide of the posts.

Strathconas got [illegible] shots from most of their starting line-up but it was a [illegible] that finally [illegible]. That [illegible] was Young [illegible] Alistair took over [illegible] to the temporary disapproval of the crowd, and scored seconds [illegible] the field [illegible].

[illegible] in front of the goal [illegible] took a cross and pushed [illegible] Travis [illegible].

Half-time was a 1-0 lead after 42 minutes. From there [illegible] Shores were [illegible] for the Shores. Two minutes later Travis came [illegible] to block a shot by Jesse Pearson, [illegible] back to the goal.

Final goal for the Strathconas came at the [illegible] mark on the pretty play of the game as [illegible] Dave Irvine a perfect pass from [illegible] Rabb to head [illegible] past Travis.

Pete Winter who had a fairly [illegible] for Shores almost got his [illegible] with three minutes left when scores mounted a desperate drive. Winter rushed [illegible] after dropping a shot [illegible].

Pirate Hopes To Vacate Basement Ride on 'Pitching and a Prayer'

By LEO H. PETERSEN

FORT MYERS, Fla. (UP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates are pinning their hopes on pitching and a prayer to get them out of the National League basement this year.

Bobby Bragan, [illegible] Pittsburgh helm, points to [illegible] four men [illegible] Vernon Law, Paul [illegible] Dick Littlefield and Dick [illegible] his starters and [illegible] Littlefield and Dan [illegible] them for the Cincinnati [illegible] St. Louis pitching staffs.

He says his Pirates [illegible] behind for the past four years [illegible] could finish as high as sixth this year but he qualifies his statement with a big [illegible] the pitching [illegible] last year.

CATCHING WEAK

Right now, Bragan calls his catching staff [illegible] and [illegible]. He says the outfield and infield are among the two big weak [illegible].

As far as the outfield goes [illegible] is a [illegible] from [illegible] has been assigned [illegible] where he has been [illegible] batting [illegible] Bob Del Greco [illegible] Dale Long [illegible] for some time [illegible] a [illegible] from Richmond [illegible] a [illegible] Virginia college [illegible] Veterans [illegible] in the [illegible] series with Navy for the Victoria Rugby Union [illegible] championship, defeating [illegible] for sailors 22-5.

President Stewart Smith of the Victoria Rugby Union [illegible] the afternoon Cup to Wanderers and also presented the Bernard Cup to James Bay Athletic Association for winning the [illegible] championship.

Raphael Duke of the Wanderers was presented with the Jem Rowland Trophy awarded to the player in the league who best combines all-round playing ability and sportsmanship.

Wanderers Win Cup; Down Venture, 24-14

Oak Bay Wanderers won the Cowichan Cup emblematic of the Vancouver Island Rugby championship at Mackenzie park yesterday by defeating HMCS Venture 24-14 in a preliminary contest. Victoria college took the field in the two-game total-point series with Navy for the Victoria Rugby Union championship, defeating the sailors 22-5.

President Stewart Smith of the Victoria Rugby Union presented the afternoon Cup to Wanderers and also presented the Bernard Cup to James Bay Athletic Association for winning the [illegible] championship.

Wales Beats France, 5-3

CARDIFF, Wales (Reuters) — Wales beat France 5-3 after a sometimes fast half on a Rugby Union international match here Saturday.

Wales, which shared the international championship with France last season, is assured of at least sharing it again and can win it outright if France beats England in Paris April 14.

E.S.B. Gets Grand National Victory When Leader Stumbles Near Finish

By GEORGE CHANDLER

AINTREE, England (UPI) — E.S.B., a stout-hearted jumper with speed to match his courage, won the 110th running of the Grand National steeplechase in near record time Saturday after Devon Loch, the Queen Mother's horse, stumbled with a royal victory only 40 yards away.

Leading by a length and one-half after clearing the last jump and still running strongly, Devon Loch [illegible] But the cheers of the 250,000 spectators turned to cries of dismay when the horse went down to his knees with only about 10 strides to go.

Dick Francis, the Royal steeplechase jockey, leaped from the saddle and helped [illegible] rider to win the four-mile, 856-yard race over 30 obstacles for Mrs. Stella Carver of Lavington, Wiltshire.

Mrs. Carver took the first letters of the first names of E.S.B.'s dam and sire to get his [illegible] decided the winners of the Liverpool Hospital Sweepstakes based upon the outcome of the race. E.S.B. is out of the mare, English Summer, and was sired by the stallion, Bidar.

'Giaconda' Waste of Talent

By BERT BINNY

For its fifth major production of the season, which opened yesterday at Langham Court, the Victoria Theatre Guild sacrificed a wealth of talent.

There was some excellent acting, some inspired direction and effective stagecraft but it was all dissipated on a play that, starting life as a story, should have remained that way.

The Giaconda Smile, adapted by Lawrence Irwin from A. Huxley's Mortal Coils has practically every character a sophomore can get out a Huxley and tosses off an endless string of aphorisms, paradoxes and assorted [illegible] platitudes.

Doris Mead excellent in the [illegible] played by Mary Jessop, was a surprisingly welcome exception to the general anxiety to occupy podium, platform, or pulpit other than scene.

In the second act a half hour of sleeping pills produced the remarkable effect of starting her also on the road to [illegible]

Chris Bennett did as [illegible] was likewise excellent with the material supplied him as was Stan Wade as Dr. Libbard.

Gillian Young as [illegible] Spence played very carefully [illegible] in the point where there was the suspicion she was [illegible] anticipating events a dozen or [illegible] preachments ahead.

Lorne Thompson as Norse Braddock established a strong character even if it was not entirely credible and the minor parts were all entirely adequate.

The audience was in some doubt as to what form of monkey business Dr. Libbard was up to on the two occasions when he practically vanished [illegible] shadows. A thunderstorm, also in the second act, was not too convincing.

Of course those who have sincere interest in things psychological may well enjoy this play because it is well done throughout and superbly done. There is the suspicion, however, that there is grave [illegible] as to its value as entertainment pure and simple.

Thousands of dollars have been spent in the past three in a replacement program for many of the rose bushes [illegible] hardest by the early frost last fa[illegible]

However officials promised that the gardens would be the most colorful with the greatest display of [illegible] in the gardens' history.

The gardens will be open to the public from 8 a.m. to [illegible] p.m. starting in April. From May through September the gardens will be open at [illegible] and illuminated.

Quiet Wedding Rainier's Choice

PARIS (UP)—Modest Prince Rainier III of Monaco sighed and said he would much prefer to slip away quietly and marry Grace Kelly without fanfare.

He is expected to wed the ... ever more as their April 18-19 wedding dates approach.

"Yes, I suppose I do," the tired prince said with a sigh as he thought about it. He leaned back in the Louis XV chair in his office at the Monacan legation in Paris.

NO IDEA

The prince said he had no idea he would marry the blonde movie star when he first met her at his palace in Monaco.

"I know there have been a lot of reports about secret meetings and all that," the prince said with a wry grimace. "But as I believe you Americans say, 'that's a lot of baloney.'"

He said he had no idea of proposing when he went to the United States last year.

He had helped Miss Kelly's aunt and uncle get a visa for a party once and he wanted to see them again when he visited the United States.

He and Miss Kelly met again, ... can tour?

"Well, I don't have to tell you," he said, his voice trailing off.

"I suppose it was that Christmas evening when I went to the Kelly home and there met Miss Kelly again."

In New York Grace Kelly, future Princess of Monaco, denied a report which said she preferred Europe to the United States.

The blonde actress and future wife of Prince Rainier said, "I am very much disturbed about a newspaper report which said I preferred Europe to the United States. The fact that I am making my home in Europe can in no way change my feeling toward America. Being an American has always and will always continue to be very important to my life."

Book-Eaters, Food-Droppers, Word-Censors, Irk Library

Dogs seem to like Victoria public library books.

"I don't know whether it is the paste used for repairing books or what," Fred White, circulation manager, said recently, "but dogs really like to eat library books."

Masters of these book-hungry dogs show up at the circulation desk and sheepishly explain that their dog chewed up borrowed books and seemed to have no trouble digesting them at all.

The masters are usually charged for replacement of their pooches' supper of books.

Also people like to eat while reading books, Mr. White said, continuing his discussion of the quirks of readers.

"We have had books, cheques, letters, three or four slips of bacon rind, bits of sandwiches, all sorts of things. Left in wads until you come to so things and then they are ... In one library we had to escape all the cards after they were so grimy from finger ... books," he said.

WORDS CROSSED OUT

Some books he said come back with all the dirty words ... out.

"With ink blots on all the words that offend them, it doesn't leave much of a picture ... some of these books," he added.

"Then I are those users that will write their opinions in books," he continued. They usually underline for several lines and write 'bosh' or 'hog wash' or 'this is untrue.'

Others, he said, will underline page after page in a row, creating extra work for the library staff who have to spend a good deal of time erasing the mess.

Some of the most popular books in the library are sociological books on sex, Mr. White said.

"When you go through the catalogue you find all the cards ... while until you come to so ... and then they are ... In one library we had to escape all the cards after sex, they were so grimy from finger ... books."

The Victoria library, he said, used to keep all the books ... a page or two and if ... and people had to ask for them.

ON OPEN SHELF

Now they are kept in an open ... labeled "Desk Books." ... some people browsing about ... start to look over the books ... on this shelf and ... mutually wander elsewhere with ... faces.

"I try not to watch people ... for fear of embarrassing ... them," Mr. White said, "and ... the books just seem to disappear from the shelf."

Do It Yourself

New Paint Needs Proper Base

By J. RALPH DALZELL

Many readers have shown interest in outside painting this spring, and are planning to refinish such wood exterior items as siding, trim, window and door frames, railings, steps and porches. It is wise ... paint ... shows six paint failures or defects which should be recognized so the same errors will not be repeated in application.

Chalking is a normal deterioration and cannot be avoided. Before repainting, use a stiff brush to remove all chalk.

Checks and cracks are caused by shrinking and hardening of the paint film or by expansion and contraction due to changes in temperature. Both defects can be controlled by applying thin coats of elastic paint.

Wrinkling often occurs when the coats of paint were applied too thick. This can be avoided by applying thin coats and by adding a half pint of thinner to every gallon of trade paint other than the drippress kind.

Alligatoring occurs when hard finish coats of paint are applied over soft prime coats. Always use a primer that will develop a harder film than the finish coat.

Mildew occurs when paint is subjected to dampness and warmth. Before repainting wash the mildewed areas with ... a saline solution and rinse with cold water. Use a paint which will dry with a hard film.

Blistering occurs when new wood under paint becomes damp due to condensation as sometimes occurs within a wall.

Cracks, wrinkling, alligatoring and especially blistering require the removal of the old paint with liquid paint remover or a blow torch. Liquid removers can be applied with a brush. Allow to stand for an hour, then scrape with a putty knife, repeating as necessary. Then wash with an ... soaked cloth. When using a torch, apply the flame to the paint until it can be scraped off.

When paint has been removed, use a prime coat and then at least one finishing coat. Buy the best paints available for good and long lasting results. Use paint with sufficient oil on porous ... and ... for resinous woods.

Never paint when the temperature falls below 50 degrees and wait about five days after rains. Wood must be perfectly dry, so paint in the morning only after the sun has removed the night's dampness.

When painting asbestos siding shingles remove dirt with a stiff brush, apply at least one soaking coat of boiled linseed oil and when dry apply good exterior house paint.

To prevent rust on wrought iron and steel rub with oil and sand paper or steel wool to remove dirt. Then wash with benzine to remove the oil, prime coat with red lead, allow to dry for a week and finally finish with exterior paint.

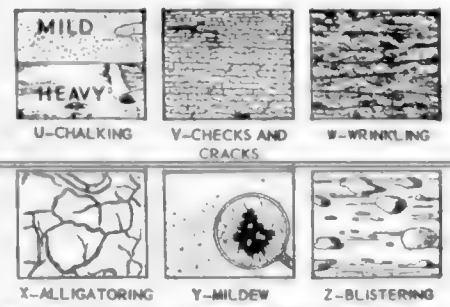
QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q.—What colors do you suggest for rooms receiving great amounts of direct sunlight?

A. Green, blue and grey tend to counteract excessive glare and give a cool and restful appearance.

Q.—What colors should be used in a small room?

A. A light colored room will appear more spacious.



Right To Shoot Granted Bowmen

City council authorized the Victoria Bowmen of No. 5 West Coast Harbor Defence yesterday to use Macaulay park next Sept. 1, 2 and 3 for a B.C. archery tournament.

The bowmen will be required to take out public liability insurance to the satisfaction of the city manager and city solicitor. Use of the park will be free provided there is no entrance fee for spectators.

What I'd Do

If I Had a Million

Boss Capt. Norman Foster of celebrations association and drill team fame says he wouldn't keep much of his mythical million dollars for himself, and means it.

Splurge on his hobbies? Go on a long trip? "No, sir. I'm too old for that," says Capt. Foster.

Instead, a efficient, well-planned investment program for the benefit of a great many people.

His first $400,000 would become a trust fund of which the yearly income would help set up a course to give 24 age pensioners free of cost one hot meal a day. Like a school from which Rutges Gadsden has on Parade some days.

The next $400,000 would be turned into medical trust fund and the income here would be equally divided between the Salvation Army, Queen Alexandra Solarium, Community Chest, Red Cross and B.C. Protestant Orphanage.

Victoria needs an auditorium, Capt. said, so another $100,000 would go to work there. Prizes to high schools entering floats in the Victoria Day parade would come out of $20,000 more.

The balance would be for ... needs, he says. Still lots of people have disasters, too.

CAPT. NORMAN FOSTER

... at home like deaths and operations and can't pay the bills.

It would be nice to have someone around to help them as I might do that, too.

Red Cross Prepares Comforts

A group of voluntary Red Cross workers in Victoria are keeping to bring some relief to the strife-torn Middle East by making children's clothing, quilts and other comforts.

The women's work committee, Victoria branch, headed by Miss Honor Nash, is making clothing for youngsters in the Gaza Strip, Lebanon, Jordan and Syria.

Material costs and shipping are paid by the Red Cross, which is now conducting a drive for $80,000 in Victoria.

School Classes To Build Floats For May Parade

Technical classes of the Greater Victoria high schools are to construct the floats which will be used in this year's May 24 parade.

[illegible] of Engineering Celebrations [illegible] committee said yesterday the school board had agreed to the arrangement whereby students would do the job as a project with materials supplied by the [illegible] at cost.

Mr. Brown said that the building used last year would not be a satisfactory one for some floats and they would not be repeated.

The Truth About Bridey Murphy

All-Out Research Checks Weird Tale

Hypnotist Morey Bernstein and editor William Barker go over notes to be investigated in Ireland

When a Pueblo, Colo., housewife told under hypnosis about a previous life in Ireland 100 years ago, the logical move was to check her story against the historic facts to determine whether it was truth or imagination. The results of an editor's weeks of thorough investigation during his on-the-spot "Search for Bridie Murphy" are reported in this new Colonist series.

By WILLIAM J. BARKER

Did Bridie Murphy really exist in Old Erin 100 years ago? Or is she merely an elaborate fiction adduced by the subconscious mind of "Ruth Simmons," Pueblo, Colo., housewife?

In February I flew 9,434 miles, drove 700 miles to find out on one of the most intriguing assignments a writer ever had. Playing detective a century after the trail had cooled took me the length and breadth of Ireland in pursuit of the charming ghost.

[illegible] was more than an assignment. [illegible] was a responsible [illegible] six weeks before. Let me explain. The very first step at [illegible] Morey Bernstein, the [illegible] looking, hardworking Pueblo, Colo., business executive who, [illegible] his hobby of hypnotism had evoked from a young married woman what appeared to be a detailed recollection of a lifetime she'd spent as Bridie Murphy [illegible] Morey Murphy [illegible] 1806 and 1864.

Curiously enough, a saturation research to check on Bridie Murphy's weird account of her incarnation from 1798 to 1864 hadn't been made until The Denver Post sent me abroad.

[illegible] her [illegible] Dublin Bridie [illegible] presented [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] interested that [illegible] the light was.

the volume which summarized such verifications of her autobiography as had been obtained for the book publishers by spring of 1955.

In my own estimation several fairly strong points had

There Was Such a Man

2. Bridie mentioned a green grocer, John Carrigan, with whom she traded in Belfast. John Bebbington, Belfast librarian, said in a letter there had been a man of that name and trade at 90 Northumberland street during the period.

[illegible] was not [illegible] Bridie's statement that there was a "Farr" [illegible] said sold [illegible]. He located a William Farr, grocer, as having done business at 7[illegible] Mountpottinger road, between Dee[illegible] and North streets, Belfast.

4. A print titled Monroe not shown on modern maps of Ireland was mentioned. Its existence was established through British Ordnance Survey.

5. Bridie asserted that Carlisle's road lead to Queens[illegible]

Tip from Irish Expert

Person urbane and pleasant was the guide to his knowledge by the Bridie story. Immediately he arranged for me to meet Niall Sheridan, Irish travel bureau [illegible] a man who knows where everything is.

"Before Ireland was partitioned," Sheridan said, "it was [illegible] with [illegible] have [illegible] have existed from 1798 to 1864. Good enough cities on [illegible] before you go running down to Cork."

Jamaica's Gem, Port of Kingston, Combines Old World with Modern

By DAVID BROWN

The city of Kingston, capital of the Caribbean island of Jamaica, sits on the lip of one of the world's finest harbors, backed by a range of blue mountains which tower to 7,204 feet.

The famous city possesses an unsurpassed glamor and old world charm. Near the centre are the native markets with their laughing "higglers in gay aprons and bandanas their stocks of golden tropical fruit piled high.

A short drive away is Hope Botanical Garden, where fabulous Jamaican orchids grow wild among bowers of bougainvillea and hibiscus. Across the harbor lies the 17th century pirate city of Port Royal where the world's most notorious buccaneers gathered to divide their spoils.

The city was established 300 years ago, after a section of Port Royal—some said for its sins—disappeared beneath the sea. A journalist of the described the new town as being set against a "background of forested mountains, dim misty in the morning, purple at sunset, and of a sea eternally changing from jade-green to gentian blue."

The excellent harbor soon made kingston a port to be reckoned with and the next century saw the town transformed into a thriving urban centre.

Today kingston retains its importance as the largest port in the British Caribbean and as a centre of world trade. Yet in its lanes and byways are many reminders of days long past, when such figures as Admiral Benbow drove their carriages a[illegible] its cobblestone streets.

ACCOMMODATIONS VARY

A visit to Jamaica without at least three days spent in King Alon is like going Paris the brushoff on a trip to France. Accommodations there range from guest houses with rates as low as $6 per day including three meals to the modern, luxurious beach hotels.

For entertainment, there are small, intimate native spots where the rich Jamaican dialect is heard. And there are the night clubs such as the world famous Glass Bucket Club.

A short drive into the hills takes the travellers into another world of palm-thatched huts and lush forests and vacationists with a nautical bent can charter a cruiser for harbor or a longer trip to nearby "picnic islands."

Like Hong Kong and other international ports, Kingston can boast large department stores and specialty shops carrying a full range of merchandise from the four corners of the earth.

In addition visitors have the advantage of shopping free port. All [illegible] shops the visitor can buy imported luxury items at savings of up to 60 per cent off Canadian prices. These savings are made possible only because the Jamaican government foregoes all customs duties and taxes on Free Port merchandise.

Probably unequalled in the world, and using techniques widely copied in many countries, Australia's lifesavers play an important role in the recreational life of this country where surfing is a national sport.

During the surfing season more than 8,000 qualified surf lifesavers regularly patrol the beaches from October to April. Together with 7,000 reserve lifesavers the group protects bathers against the dangers of shark and sea.

Huge Liverpool Dock Shed To Be Trussed with B.C. Fir

Special to the Colonist

Lumbers for timber industry has secured a contract from Mersey Docks and Harbor Board for 85 laminated timber trusses made of Douglas fir for the new $380,000 dock shed to be built at Liverpool to replace one destroyed by enemy action in 1941.

Original plans was to use steel trusses but the Timber Development Association submitted alternative plans for Mansard-type trusses and arranged for full-scale trusses to be subjected to strength tests. As a result of these tests the board decided to place an order for 92 wood trusses which are now being fabricated in Liverpool.

The board found timber cheaper than steel in cost and maintenance and that wartime experience proved that although timber charred in fire it did not collapse as quickly as metal and when it had long timber trusses made of that it did not pull down the walls of building.

In addition 120 heavy timber sliding doors have been ordered for the shed which will be 500 yards long and equipped in nine bays.

Old age pensions in Australia start at 60 years for women, 65 for men with a means test.

Credit Union Loans $25,000

Loans totalling more than $25,000 were granted to members of the Langford Credit Union and a four per cent dividend was declared for 1955 at a recent meeting at St. Matthew's Parish Hall. Loss of $1 was read. The meeting elected F. Jeffcott as president by acclamation.

Brands Make Western Heraldry

SOMETHING in the nature of a peerage exists among B.C.'s beef cattle owners. Not necessarily wealthy members of this particular upper crust can be distinguished by their cattle brands. To elevate the owners of old-time brands [illegible] brands that have to stay in the family. And the law sees that they do.

I got this fragment of information the other day talking to Tom Moore, B.C.'s Chief Inspector of Brands and an experienced cattleman in his own right.

Something Old, Something New

THE study of evolution has fascinated learned men throughout the ages, but despite man's insatiable curiosity surprising little is known of our beginnings. From time to time an ancient skeleton is dug up, date of death is determined, and we have another clue as to how our forebears looked and lived. But it's a slow business and it may take many more centuries, if ever, before we are able to prove, or disprove Darwin's theory.

YEAR-ROUND BUSINESS

Rabbits Not Easter Fancy

By ALEC MERRIMAN

WITH Easter just one week away thoughts turn naturally to Easter bunnies, but to the 40 members of the Vancouver Island Rabbit Breeders' Association the Easter bunny is a year-round event.

They raise rabbits for show, meat and fur and one suggested were pets are referred to as a hobby. But for another

They are quick to point out that raising rabbits is becoming a business proposition, especially as Canada imports the entire industry is the biggest user of the meat. Vancouver exports agricultural department.

Because breeders here respect the law on provincial boundaries, agriculture does not permit the importation and re-export of rabbits, for the wartime of a rumored plague would bring

BIGGEST EVENT

The biggest annual event in the calendar of the rabbit breeders is the Provincial Rabbit Show, held in Victoria each year. This year's show will be held April 14 and 15 in the Agricultural Exhibition.

In spite of the rabbit's reputation for fecundity, the breeders find it difficult to keep up with the demand. They laugh at the old fantasy that rabbits serve rabbit instead of mutton because as they point out rabbit meat which sells at 60 cents a pound is more expensive than chicken.

They claim that domestic rabbit meat is better than chicken and emphasize that the flavor of domestic rabbits produced when meat is contrasted to the game taste of the brown meat from wild rabbits.

The Vancouver Island Rabbit Breeder's Association, which is headed by David Nightingale is affiliated with the national body, the American Rabbit Breeders Association which has more than 20 different varieties of rabbits in its Standard of perfection.

LEADING BREEDERS

Some of the biggest breeders here include Allard J. Ingram of Rosa Oak Gardens and Jatte Aste of Saanich, Miss P. M. Baker of Sidney, Harry and Bessie Sanders of Langford, Stan Hunt of Saanich, Wilson and Mina Clemens of Happy Valley and Mary Ferne of Metchosin.

Show competition is one of the large features of today's rural home as demonstrated by the number of entries in the annual show and August 30 of March and April.

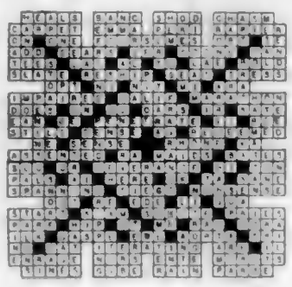
Last Sunday's Solution



THIS WEEK'S ANAGRAMS

RULES—How is your vocabulary? There is no better or more fascinating way to improve it than by solving these anagrams each Sunday. Add the letter in the first column, subtract the letter in the second column, and rearrange the letters so as to form a new word.

EXAMPLE: PRINTER plus P minus N equals ??? Answer: TRIPPER. Can you solve the following anagrams?

Music No Part-Time Pastime For Naden Bandsmen

By ERITH M. SMITH

Lt.-Cmdr. William Gordon, formerly of the Royal Marines and now an instructor, has at Naden's School of Music seven pupils on the French horn to Able Seaman Ken Bradshaw of Hastings, until, and Doug Bowers of Battleford, Sask. Photo by Bud Kinsman.

IT ALL began with Joshua—and that was a long time ago.

You'll remember Joshua, taking over leadership of the children of Israel after Moses' death, became one of their most successful warriors, when the city of Jericho stood in their way on the road to the Promised Land.

Heading a message from the Lord Joshua had seven priests each blowing a ram's horn trumpet lead the soldiers around the walls of Jericho daily for six days and seven times on the seventh day. Then the people shouted with a great shout and the wall fell down flat.

So if you're wondering why it is that all the armed services—navy, army and air force—have their bands, this is how it all started.

The instruments themselves the melodies have changed but the inspiration for some of music has come down through the centuries.

DONE RIGHT HERE

Let's see now where the bands come from. To be exact lets see how the Royal Canadian Navy develops and trains such fine organizations as the justly famous Naden band.

It's done right here in Esquimalt at HMCS Naden, training base for the Navy's School of Music. Lt.-Cmdr. H. G. Cuthbert, B.Mus., is officer in charge.

In that position the eight on his desk tells him director of music. Lt.-Cmdr. Cuthbert is musician at every ambition and calling in the sort of work he took over some years ago from his father.

Music runs in the Cuthbert family. Back in England his father, C. H. Cuthbert, had played in regimental and military bands before joining the Royal Navy. He was bandmaster for famous old battleship Duke of Edinburgh and kept up his passion for music and fostered it in his son.

HELPED BOYS

When the Japanese closed Mr. Cuthbert was at work in Vancouver with ship repairs. He studied the Saskatoon Boys Band, which started by a group of boys, the boys come provided with band instruments and trained in their use.

Lt.-Cmdr. Cuthbert took over the training duties when his father died with the able assistance of L.S. Mills (cornet) and School Bandmaster Bonner (clarinet). Their mascot who was the band's business manager.

The band grew by a point where there were five members and those units increased in numbers, in intermediates and seniors.

Then came the Second World War. Lt.-Cmdr. Cuthbert a member of the RCN Reserve was on this coast actually two days before war broke out and spent some months as pay master at the naval control office in Vancouver.

FUTURE LOOMS

Within a matter of months however his future caught up with him and early in 1940 he was brought to Naden to organize a naval band.

Of the 25 members in that first band 10 came from the Saskatoon Boys Band (some directly or by transfer from other services of the navy lost by the way one of the boys still "in" He is Lieut. S. Sunderland now in charge of East Coast naval bands.

For many years bandsmen were drawn from whatever source might provide. During that time Lt.-Cmdr. Cuthbert and some other far-seeing men developed proposed and encouraged a system which at last (not about a year ago) was put into effect.

Thereby Lt.-Cmdr. Cuthbert is happy to be doing what he has always hoped and wanted to do. Help boys to useful careers in music.

APPRENTICES

Bandsmen now are taken in as apprentices that is from the ages of 16 to 17. They may apply to the RCN to include a year's service. Standard requiring it they must be "good with their instruments" when they start training at HMCS Naden.

In the two years course of study they spend 50 weeks at Naden and the rest aboard ship. Some time between sixteen months and two years they are expected to be proficient enough to play in the band.

At the same time the lads pursue studies in other subjects. Some of them have passed junior matriculation.

THEY "FIT"

Further, the young fellow may be "fit" for staff badges as well. If some patient shows talent for music he will be given special training and may be developed for bandmaster.

While in Victoria recently Dr. Ettore Mazzoleni, principal of Toronto's Royal Conservatory of Music, was a distinguished visitor at Naden's School. Here he confers with Lt.-Cmdr. Kenneth Young, while Lt.-Cmdr. H. G. Cuthbert, officer-in-charge, and Lt.-Cmdr. Dickson of Ottawa, in B.C. looks on. (RCN photo)

MOST FROM NADEN

After their training apprentices go either to a regular band position or to the fleet. Besides the Naden band there are recruited more by shore bands ashore at HMCS Stadacona, HMCS Cornwallis, HMCS Shearwater and the training ship HMCS Magnificent. The HMCS Ontario Musicians of the second and these girls were trained at Naden.

Today with from eight to 12 new ratings every month there are 84 apprentices at the school of music and about 90 members of the Naden band. Another 17 bandsmen at the time this was written were aboard the Ontario returning from Asiatic waters.

There is no hard-and-fast rule by the way governing sea time for bandsmen. In fact a case of so many months ashore so many at sea. However a clarinetist trombonist or clarinetist has a better chance of going to sea than has say the bass horn player. The latter are needed more by shore bands than by sea-going units.

School policy though is that every bandsman go to sea if possible.

DRUM MAJOR

All this assorted information made the writer wonder about that outstanding figure in any band the drum major.

He is it turns out just another bandsman but with a difference. First of all he is a qualified instrumentalist. Then because of his bearing his general deportment his smart appearance his aptitude he is selected and trained as drum major. No band can do without one.

Once our young apprentice has graduated to a regular band what happens? A soft touch with a bit of practicing playing and marching?

GOOD QUARTERS

What the musicians? Well, [illegible] are [illegible] of Naden and [illegible] there. Come to the mess [illegible] Sergeants' Mess [illegible] Petty Officers' Mess [illegible] there are [illegible] are regular visitors of the Victoria Symphony Orchestra.

There are [illegible] to [illegible] leave to [illegible] concerts. The scene [illegible] every [illegible] at the [illegible].

Another Canadian musician [illegible] are [illegible] Naden school of music.

Dr. Ettore Mazzoleni principal of the Royal Conservatory of Music, Toronto, visited the school during a recent trip to Victoria as guest conductor of the symphony. He was much impressed with what he saw and said the high standards maintained by the school.

LIFE JOB

Thus it becomes obvious that those navy musicians are not just blowing as a pastime they are making a career job of music and thrilling every man on it.

It was enlightening to drop in for a moment at a group practice. Here about 20 young musicians in the saloon most of [illegible] about five months—were playing under the direction of one of the instructors. They [illegible] was not simple [illegible] stuff either, but the real thing. "No frank here" [illegible] Cuthbert commented.

Bandsmen bandsmen must be good musicians. Of course they must maintain their easy appearance. They must care for their instruments—they must care for their own quarters.

Practice is the dictum here. Even the time they spend [illegible] Saturday morning [illegible] and quarters. When they go to sea they are expected to [illegible] their own [illegible] of operations keeping up [illegible] to [illegible] who does [illegible].

Hardly Able To Smile

So nervous they had to hold on to each other, Horace Whiteoak and his sister, Mrs. Rita Liska, were barely able to smile after his Irish sweep ticket won $56,000 yesterday.—(Colonist photo by Jim Ryan.)

'Butterflies' Prime Problem For $56,000 Sweep Winner

Horace Whiteoak plopped into a chair in his Saanich home last night, considered his tax-free $56,000 and said "Butterflies . . . I've got butterflies."

The 40-year-old bachelor, a Yarrows electrician who lives with his mother and sister in the oldest house in their district, was one of 12 Canadians sharing almost $500,000 in major sweepstake prizes on the Grand National steeplechase in Aintree, England, yesterday.

He and [illegible] Lloyd Goch of North Vancouver clicked for $56,000 each when Gentle Maya finished second. [illegible] Helen Orsolets, a 43-year-old Vancouver widow who was also Canadian to win $1[illegible] first prize on the winning horse, E.S.B.

CALM BREAKFAST

Well-dressed Mr. Whiteoak said he did not listen to the radio account of the race, but had his "normal breakfast of toast and tea" instead.

"Then I heard and the butterflies were there," he said. "I have still there now."

Friends, including people he knew years ago, telephoned every few minutes with congratulations as Mr. Whiteoak stayed home except for a brief downtown shopping trip.

"I've got my plans made for at least one of the moneys," he said. "But I want to do my own shopping."

Thieves Get Only $3 In Break-In

Thieves escaped with only $3 from a cash box when they broke into the office of Jones Foster Refrigeration, 944 North Park street, last night.

Police report entry was gained by breaking a window on the east side of the building shortly after 8 p.m.

Nothing else appeared to be missing, they added, but the office was thoroughly ransacked.

Neighbors Rap High School, Charge Litter, Car Nuisance

Mount View High school students litter the school grounds and neighborhood with garbage, block driveways with their cars and use streets as speedways, a resident of Kamloops street charged yesterday.

Alfred Petford, 121 Kamloops, said he had collected 16 signatures on a petition of complaint which he is placing before Saanich council.

"A lady told me she saw a rat come out of a paper bag on the school grounds," Mr. Petford said.

Replied Dr. J. M. Thomas, principal of Mount View high: "Most of that is outside my jurisdiction. Everything that pertains to the highways is for the ratepayers and the police."

MORE PARKING

Although it was not a school responsibility, Dr. Thomas added, the school arranged with Saanich police for additional student parking on the strip facing the school grounds along side Carey road. This should take the pressure off the side streets, he said.

This arrangement began last Friday. "So Mr. Petford is a little behind time in his data," Dr. Thomas said.

'PET BEFORE SCHOOL'

Mr. Petford claimed in his petition that students arrive in their cars at 8 a.m. and park beside the street, sometimes "petting in their cars."

At noon, the petition charges, students eat lunch in their cars and scatter paper and garbage around.

Mr. Petford also accused students of parking bumper-to-bumper and shutting off resident from access to their own driveways, and using Homer, Kamloops and Seaton streets as a "speedway."

He said he complained to health authorities about the litter on the school grounds. As a result, the grounds and ditches were cleared of trash. However, he said they have become littered again.

"There are no garbage cans on the school grounds," Mr. Petford said.

ALL SIGNED

"I called at 16 homes with the petition, and got 16 signatures."

Dr. Thomas denied most of Mr. Petford's assertions. "There is a garbage burner in use all the time," he said.

"But our chief difficulty is with the people who come to the school grounds in the evenings—little children and older teen-agers who are not our students.

"At 3 or 5 p.m. the place is neat, but the next day we find all sorts of things strewn around.

"What authority has a school principal, or the board, to say: 'Don't drop that candy wrapper on the road'?"

However, he said, the three neighborhood stores were out of bounds to students, so that chances to buy litter-making food were limited as much as possible.

PROBLEM ALL OVER

"As for student parking—that is a problem that is probably common to every high school in North America. It is the board's policy not to provide student parking because of the danger to life and limb. And there is no solution to it."

Candy Gets Facial

If Daddy can shave, so can I—that's what every youngster thinks. But seldom do they lather their would-be whiskers with mud, as did happy Candy Judd, three-year-old daughter of Lieut.-Cmdr. B. L. Judd, 808 Langham Court, to greet Daddy on his return from a Pacific cruise with HMCS Ontario.—(Colonist photo by Jim Ryan.)

Cane-Twirling Brigadier Explains Atomic Exercise

Brig. George Kitching, de-bonair B.C. area commander, explained Exercise Fireball yesterday with a twirl of a long cane.

"If there was an atomic war," he said pointing at a cloth model laid out at Work Point barracks, "distances would be 15 times as great as in the Second World War.

"The reason is that troops must be spread well out because of the risk of atomic explosions.

"You can get an idea of the difficulties if you imagine Victoria expanded as far as Duncan.

"That would pose some interesting problems of supply and communications."

More than 100 officers from militia units all over B.C. watched yesterday's cloth model exercise.

"The regular army presents the problems and the militia gives ideas on solutions," said Brig. Kitching.

Exercise Fireball ends today with troop manoeuvres and a mock A-bomb blast near East Saanich Indian reserve.

Brig. John S. Adam, commander of 25 militia group headquarters on Vancouver Island and Brig. D. M. Clarke, commander of 24 militia headquarters in Vancouver, will lead militia officers in their search for answers to the tactical problems.

Halfway Around World

Amsterdam to Capetown

Victorians Hike 12,000 Miles

BY ROY FARRETT

A [illegible] couple walked half way around the world to become [illegible] Mr. and Mrs. Klara Verbeek, who left Dutch Guiana [illegible] made their home [illegible] cares which would [illegible] half a dozen exciting moves.

Mr. and Mrs. Verbeek walked from Amsterdam to Capetown, a distance of 12,000 miles.

The Dutch couple, now living at the West Saanich Auto Court, like Victoria best.

Their great hike began at the universities in Amsterdam when they met students from South Africa. "They invited us to visit them so we did," Mr. Verbeek said.

[illegible] leave [illegible] Mr. Verbeek [illegible] the [illegible] Dutch [illegible] organized [illegible]

ONLY WAY TO GO

Not having the means to go by boat or plane, and their car not being equal to such a long journey, they set out on foot. Carrying 60-pound packs, the Dutch couple left Amsterdam on Oct. 12, 1953. They hiked through Belgium, France, Yugoslavia and Greece making about 30 miles a day.

The minister and his wife took in the sights of Greece making a side trip of more than 1,000 miles to visit Athens.

The couple really perspired making their way through the snow-high mountain passes during the winter months.

"There are no good roads in Turkey and travel is not easy. To make matters worse, we had tropical hiking clothes and the temperature was around zero," they recall with a shiver.

LOST ALL HOPE

At one point in the journey Mrs. Verbeek could go no further and lost all hope of ever seeing civilization again. But the intrepid Dutch minister never lost faith. "We will get out of this all right," he assured his near frozen wife.

Almost at once a truck came along the little-travelled road and picked them up, probably saving Mrs. Verbeek's life.

"But I had to ride on the back of the open vehicle as there was no room inside," Mr. Verbeek said. After an eight-hour journey over bumpy roads he was reduced to "an ice column."

CHRISTMAS IN BETHLEHEM

In spite of difficulties, they reached the Holy Land in time to spend Christmas in Bethlehem.

It was in Palestine that the hikers got first-hand knowledge of Middle East problems. They pitched their tents alongside those of refugees.

"It is a tragic situation. The refugees have no belongings, no future and no hope. And they have nothing to do, which makes things worse," the Verbeeks explained.

[illegible] of the [illegible] situation in the Middle East the travellers were not permitted to cross the heavily defended borders in Palestine. So they struck out across the desert, heading for Cairo.

ARAB TROOPER

The Jordan government, after [illegible] to provide them, provided an escort for the journey—a trooper from the famed Arab Legion.

The colorful guard with his rifle and camel ensured safe passage through the wild re[illegible] known for its hostility.

"But the animals bothered us at night," Mr. Verbeek remembers. "Mountain lions, jackals and panthers howled around our camp every night. We were always glad to see the dawn."

The couple reached Cairo, travelled along the Nile and arrived at the Sudan, where the authorities flatly refused to allow them to proceed on foot as [illegible] an "impossible" journey.

SLIPPED AWAY

"There was no turning back so we went anyway," they relate. They gave the officials the slip and made their way through the Belgian Congo to Northern and Southern Rhodesia, taking time out to visit Victoria Falls, which the Verbeeks describe as "the most beautiful sight in the world."

Footsore and weary, they arrived in Capetown in April, 1954, to find that they had been listed as "missing" by their friends. They had covered 12,000 miles in six months.

Mr. Verbeek came to Canada to be minister at a Port Alberni church, but was "released" after three months. "Our Dutch and Canadian doctrines were somewhat different," the minister observes.

Determined to make a home here rather than return to Holland the much-travelled missionary has taken a job at the Canadian Industries Limited explosive plant at James Island and is living in Victoria. The work is "somewhat different," but he likes it.

Although he never had a camera in his hands before setting off on the long hike, Mr. Verbeek kept a complete photographic record of the trip. He brought back movies, slides and still photographs of the countries he and his wife visited.

Some of these pictures will be shown at the regular meeting of the Victoria Moxie Club when Mr. and Mrs. Verbeek are guests at the Greater Victoria Art Centre, Moss street, on Tuesday night.

Altar Massed with Flowers When Joan Mollgard Bride

A pretty spring wedding was solemnized recently at St. Luke's church by Cannon F. Pike, uniting in marriage Joan Margaret, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. Mollgard with Donald John Strank, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Strank, Cumberland, V.I.

The altar was massed with spring flowers and baskets of white [illegible] and white [illegible]. The family pews were marked with sprigs of shamrock caught with white ribbons.

Given in marriage by her father, the charming bride was gowned in waltz-length white Swiss eyelet over aqua crystal sheer in bouffant style. The fitted short-sleeved bodice was finished with tiny Peter Pan collar and buttons to the waist over a full skirt. Her chapel length veil of illusion net was held by a coronet of pleated white net interspersed with iridescent pearls and sequins and she carried a crescent bouquet of white gardenias, lily of the valley and stephanotis against dark green ivy.

She was preceded down the aisle by little Cathy Clarkson, the flower girl, in a story book dress of aqua crystal sheer, styled with double flounced skirt and Peter Pan collar, frosted with dainty white lace. Her matching headdress was caught with a spray of white flowers and her colonial style bouquet was centred with rosebuds surrounded by cheerfulness and sprigs of shamrock.

The bridesmaid, Miss Joan Long, was also gowned in aqua crystal sheer, styled with scoop neckline trimmed in aqua velvet and skirt of unpressed pleats. She wore a matching headdress trimmed with white flowers and carried a crescent bouquet of white [illegible] and stephanotis against dark green ivy.

The groom had Mr. Charles Boyd as best man and Mr. Robert Bell and Mr. Don Donahue ushered the guests to their seats. During the signing of the register, Mr. John Boel sang "The Lord's Prayer." Organist was Mr. Eric V. Edwards.

After the ceremony, a reception for 150 guests was held at Hampton hall where the couple were assisted in receiving by their parents. Mrs. Mollgard wore navy blue taffeta with pink and turquoise teardrop pattern, navy melusine hat and pink carnation corsage. Mrs. Strank's gown was sky blue lace, her accessories navy blue and her corsage variegated carnations.

The bride's table was centred by a three-tiered square cake baked by the bride's mother, and iced by Bill Blaauw, surrounded by frothy tulle and lattice. The bride, donned a [illegible] with pink rosebuds. Princess style dress of tan[illegible] and creamy beige accessories.

Junior League Preps For Sparkling Follies With Nautical Theme

There are two weeks of strenuous rehearsal ahead for director David Jones of New York and his cast before the "Follies of '56" is staged in Oak Bay Junior High School April 6 and 7.

This year's show is the second of what Solarium Junior League members, who produce it as a fund-raising event for Solarium maintenance, hope will become an annual event.

The entire cast was chosen from local singers and dancers at a talent party last week at the yacht club. Numbers featured this year will include a chorus line of the Folly Dollies and a square-dance sequence, but the main theme is nautical.

Though the cast is local, the director has been brought from New York to give the show professional finish, and lavish costumes are also on their way from the United States.

Catherine the Great is just a vision conjured up by a marooned sailor practising with a crystal ball. Catherine, played by Adele Goult, and other great ladies of history, will materialize when Solarium Junior League presents the "Follies of '56" April 6 and 7 at Oak Bay Junior High. Awestruck sailors startled at the success of crystal gazing are Able Seaman V. C. Larsen, left, and Able Seaman B. Moreland.

Gay Adeline, Hollywood's Oldest Actress, is 93; Folies Bergere Filmed Twice to Suit All Tastes

Adeline deWalt Reynolds can recall dashing on the stage of the American Music Hall in 1894.

Today, at 93, she's performing in movies and is certainly the world's oldest regularly employed actress.

Mrs. Reynolds goes to night school three times a week to learn Spanish and also does roles in movies and TV films, her most notable one recently being The 10 Commandments.

Mrs. Reynolds married a magician who "pooh-poohed off to heaven" when their four children were still young, but she managed to get her children and send them out into the world. Then she decided to do the things she had always wanted. She enrolled at the University of California at 61 and graduated with high honors.

She visited the agents in Hollywood and was practically thrown out of their offices. Finally she found one who would handle her. She started her acting career at 77 in "Come Live With Me" with James Stewart and Hedy Lamarr.

Mrs. Reynolds has played dozens of roles since then. Her most notable was as Ella Fitzgerald's mother in "Sing My Way," but her favorite was as a native woman in "Queen of Tahiti," with Charles Laughton.

She has even taken dancing lessons because I got a role with Gene Kelly when I didn't know how to dance.

They're making a slap-up job of color, dimness and dancing film of the world's naughtiest stage show, the Folies Bergere. And to make sure it goes around the world, they're shooting two versions.

For the French who stoutly maintain that no nudes is bad news there'll be the authentic strapless backless, bra-less version that has drawn tired businessmen from every known quarter of the civilized and uncivilized world.

But for Americans there'll be a second version with the girls well covered. As the French producer puts it sadly: "Ah, les Americains, they have not taken leave of their senses."

* * *

It takes all sorts to make a world, dearie. Maybe that's why Grace Kelly and Prince Rainier have invited Rainier's troubadour, Lucky Mascagno, to sing three love songs at the wedding of the principals next month.

The troubadour in question is Eddy Constantine, 30-year-old American singer, dancer and actor who arrived in France soon after the war with nothing but holes in his pockets and the ambition to eat regularly.

In Paris he got a break at last when somebody decided to make a series of French, English gangster pictures. Eddy got the job and just decided to act the part in a way that made French women relatives waggle in their seats with excitement.

As a result the quiet lad can't stroll the town unrecognized. He owns a farm and sells 1,000,000 records a year.

Good-looking too? Hardly that. In fact his face has been described as "an old dart board with a lugubriously-dug set therein, functioning as a mouth."

* * *

Gabe Farcas, lecturer in the Peace Vancouver this week on the character Holmes, says he sees "considerable here . . . police harness shined, cars and walking feet are more at ease along the Champs Elysees."

* * *

Singer Patachou is very talented and good to look at. You may have read her records in Canada but if you haven't seen her act . . . you don't know the half of it.

She's the one woman around who can grace the London Palladium stage alone with costume wearing a service beret, scarf and everyday blouse and wow the audience by singing sad songs in a language most of them don't understand.

And until she was ordered never sang a note in public. Her age now? Twenty-six.

Peggy's Smart—Buys Off Rack, Hand Sews Her Own Clothes Or Uses 'Little Dressmaker'

BY EILEEN LEAROYD

The world of fashion has many faces. From Vogue's world of high fashion and the creations of designers like Dior and Balmain, Peggy says are the manufacturers who market ready originals turning them out for all the rack sales from budget prices up to the more expensive models made of better materials.

There is another important fashion story in the large numbers of women who buy patterns and materials and either make their own clothes or search out a "little dressmaker."

For instance Peggy Fox buys many ready-made dresses, but some of her loveliest dresses are hand-sewn by herself or a dressmaker.

They say a pretty girl is like a melody, and if that is so, Peggy is a very melodious person. She has the fairest hair, the bluest eyes and the most winning smile.

She works at the Pacific Naval Laboratory in HMC Dockyard and her husband, Lieut.-Comdr. Fox, on HMCS Cedarwood, lives now at 1861 Hampshire Road.

In the first picture, our lovely model wears a striking cocktail dress she made herself. Peggy liked the simple, floral print of this dress and stated its very simplicity made it easy to make.

The neckline is a graceful rounded scoop line at both back and front, the torso is long and well-fitting and the skirt is almost a full circle.

This pretty frock, perfect for dancing, is made from embossed and taffeta-sized cotton, and it cost $1.49 a yard.

A special feature of this material is that it is washable, crease-resistant and can be carefully washed by hand.

The photograph of Peggy holding a charming Italian straw picture hat, was taken in the sun porch of the Old Charming Inn and here she wears a beautiful sea-green gown, made for her by a private dressmaker.

Again she chooses a simple pattern, the skirt falling in soft folds, a low neckline and a bracelet-length sleeve.

The material is a pure silk shantung and it took three and three-quarter yards at $3.98 a yard. The shantung is washable and also spot resistant.

After leaving Peggy we looked through a downtown yardgoods shop where we got a passing ticket to see what was newly arrived.

There we saw the lovely marquise organzas similar to those which Peggy had made her dress from. They run from $1.29 a yard to $2.25 and come in fresh, attractive florals, large and small prints, and pastels.

Next we saw a Swiss rayon called Boheme Faconne which comes in plain pastels and matching florals and, of course, lends itself so well to this season's matching separates. The plain fabric is $3.50 a yard and the floral is $3.95.

A striking Swiss embroidered linen in palest yellow with white embroidery was $4.9- to $5.95 a yard. We were told this made up into beautiful coats and dresses.

Also from Switzerland is a variety of eyelet cotton 36 inches wide, priced from $3.9- to $10.95 a yard. It comes in the softest spring tones and is washable and beautifully manufactured so that threads do not even show on the reverse side.

For the "piece de resistance," again made in the Alps, is the exquisite eyelet organdy 45 inches wide at $6.95 a yard. It comes in white and in pastels and the border is finely finished in scalloped embroidery.

Easter Ham Delicious Glazed and Garnished

Let ham shine on your Easter dinner table, with a gleaming glaze of mustard, brown sugar, flour and vinegar. This ham is studded with whole cloves and garnished with sprigs of parsley and peach and pear halves filled with colorful jelly.—(CDA Picture.)

What could be better for Easter dinner than a glistening, beautiful ham with rosy-hued slices that are tender and juicy. The ham should be baked in a slow (325 degrees Fahrenheit) oven, the roasting temperature recommended for most meats. If the ham is to be glazed the temperature is raised to 425 degrees Fahrenheit during the last few minutes of baking and the fat surface of the ham is scored in diamonds or squares and [illegible] with whole cloves. The glaze is then smoothed on and the ham is returned to the oven for about 15 minutes, or until it is golden brown.

The most common glaze for ham is made from a mixture of one cup brown sugar, two teaspoons dry mustard, three tablespoons flour and three tablespoons vinegar. This recipe makes enough glaze to cover the fat surface of a half ham, or one weighing about six to eight pounds. Another attractive glaze is made by simply covering the ham with a red currant or tart apple jelly. A little dry mustard or horseradish may be mixed with the jelly for added flavor.

Cranberry sauce or jelly is colorful and tasty as a glaze, also. It is best to mix some corn syrup or honey with cranberry sauce when it is used. Maple syrup alone or mixed with fruit juice and either apple juice or apricot nectar mixed with brown sugar are easy-to-make glazes that also add flavor to the ham.

One last hint for cooking—do not baste the ham with glaze that has run down into the drippings as this may dull the lustre of the glaze.

GARNISHES FOR HAM

Garnishes are to food what accessories are to clothes. They add a finishing touch which makes the final effect appealing to the eye. Neither garnishes nor accessories should be overdone for when properly used [illegible]

When we think of spring it is quite natural to [illegible] green leaves and pastel [illegible] Eggs as a symbol of Easter [illegible] like little [illegible] crosses and specially [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

It's Love or Hate—No Half Way

City of Beauty and Dirt

By WILLIAM MARSHALL
Colonist Correspondent

VANCOUVER — There is a city to love or to hate.

There's no middle ground.

It's a case of how to be beautiful though ugly.

Anyone can find out for himself. [illegible] mountains wear their snow like a white mantle.

That's beautiful. And so are the streets, the parks and most of the people most of the time.

But Detective Sergeant Archie Plummer, head of the police drug squad, can tell you there's at least 2,500 known drug addicts in the city—and that's not pretty.

And would have to admit to a visitor the skidroad is still worst, grimier than ever. More brutal than ever. Less romantic. More fatal.

The streets around Main and Hastings where once the Swede loggers drank, fought, sang and got robbed of their pay, now [illegible] the scene where the [illegible] stage.

Mood music is rock and roll. It always has been the same down that way and the police blotter bear a thousand and one right entries about the men who, lured drinking with friendly strangers and woke up in a [illegible] with a headache, a head and a dent in his bankroll.

Sulphur and Molasses

"Sulphur and molasses," said a woman across from her. For some reason her companion nodded and said "cream of tartar."

At the first bench on the way to the animal cages you ask an old man what time it is and he smiles and answers "springtime." Nice place, Vancouver.

Along the line of march the bird feeders were out in force. The ducks and geese and pigeons never had it so good. [illegible] people have been [illegible] feeding [illegible] Bernese.

The bears were rocking back and forth in their dens pausing to stare out contemptuously at the peanut tossers. Across the way the monkeys and seals, now in one big cage featuring pool and swings, still had each other mutually puzzled. But they were sharing the sunshine without rancor.

On top of the bird cage a peacock with its tail spread was [illegible] a wonderful day in Vancouver, the spring. You love the place.

Even crime takes a wacky turn in some of its aspects.

For instance, police were asked to intensify special attention at the old people [illegible] thefts being attributed to [illegible] and unsafe [illegible] last heard, [illegible] the new police safety [illegible] "Instead of the stuff [illegible]

Two boys setting out for a marine adventure were picked up by police at Terminal docks in a fiberglas rowboat stolen from seiner Cape Naden. The pirates—aged 9 and 11—admitted also stealing a knife, a loaf of bread, a box of cheese and a can opener from the seiner Zodiac light.

At Mayfair Lanes, Acme Dairies Hotel reported one [illegible] a sixth frame [illegible] of the [illegible] for [illegible] where she [illegible] and [illegible] American magazine [illegible] special name of "Satan."

"Unable to give a coherent account," the blotter notes. "Advised to return and make a full report when sober."

Clever night. Last weekend it's spring. Temperature [illegible] Clouds intermittent. Sunshine sweet as garden syrup. The big love affair with Vancouver is on again.

Union Jack On Way Out In South Africa

CAPETOWN (Reuters) — Government support was given in the assembly Friday to a proposal that the South African flag should become the country's only official flag, to the exclusion of the Union Jack, which at present [illegible] equal official status.

Similar endorsement was given to the motion that Die Stem van Suid Afrika (The Voice of South Africa) be South Africa's national anthem in both Afrikaans and English languages.

And Save The Queen now is played together with Die Stem van Suid Afrika in official ceremonies.

6 IN MEMORIAM

BROWN—In loving memory of Jean Sylvia Brown (nee Pearce) who passed away March 25, 1946.

She never quite leaves us,
Although she is seated,
A thought and memories
Are holding her fast.
We cannot forget her
We loved her too dear
Her memory grows sweeter,
Year after year.
—Sadly missed by her loving family.

COOKE—In fond memory of Miss A. B. "Birdie" Cooke, a beloved teacher and friend, who passed away March 25, [illegible].

MAXWELL—In loving memory of our dear mother and nanny Jeanie Maxwell who passed away March 25, 1952.
Our family circle has been broken
A link gone from our chain
But though we're parted [illegible] awhile
We know we'll meet again
Some day we hope to meet [illegible]
Some day we know not [illegible]
We shall meet in a better [illegible]
And never part again.
We shall meet with many a loved one
The [illegible] torn from our embrace
We shall listen to their voices.
And behold them face to face
Sadly missed by daughter Lena, grandchildren, Florence and [illegible].

JONES—In loving memory of a dear wife and mother Adele Mary Jones who passed away March 25, 1949.
We do not forget her, we love her
For her memory to fade from our lives like a dream;
Our lips need not speak when our hearts mourn sincerely
For grief often dwells where it seldom is seen
Ever remembered by her husband and children.

MORTON—In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother Margaret Morton who passed away March 29, 1944.
Ever remembered by her daughter Florence son-in-law Louis, granddaughters, Florence and [illegible].

Rita Del Mar's Daily Astrology

SUNDAY, MARCH 25, 1956

Today's quotation — "Worry is interest paid on trouble before it falls due."—Dean Inge.

Sunday for everyone—Promote friendships, public interests; catch up with correspondence, trips and contacts. Afternoon and evening: avoid extravagance; be diplomatic during the morning.

Look for Your Birthdate and Birthsign Below

March 21 to April 19 (Aries) — Give attention to wardrobe, appearance, finances following noontime. Be moderate in the morning.

April 20 to May 20 (Taurus)—Have a good time; circulate freely in the afternoon and evening. Be discreet, economical in the morning.

May 21 to June 20 (Gemini)—Be around home, family, [illegible] an even keel in the morning.

June 21 to July 22 (Cancer)—Afternoon and evening: see kin, loved ones; catch up with writings, visits. Morning: be tolerant.

July 23 to Aug. 22 (Leo)—Afternoon and evening: attend to finances, assets; be at home. Morning: curb spending.

Aug. 23 to Sept 22 (Virgo) — Exert personality; write, visit this afternoon and evening. Be moderate, practical in morning.

Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 (Libra) — Following noontime: forward confidential, private, financial interests. Morning: rest, relax.

Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 (Scorpio)—Promote friendships, social contacts in the afternoon and evening. Be economical, conservative in morning.

Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 (Sagittarius) — Visit parents, higher-ups; solve problems in the afternoon and evening. Skip tangents in morning.

Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 (Capricorn)—Seek co-operation in plans, ideas, trips; see friends following noontime. Evening: recheck decisions.

Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 (Aquarius) — Promote privacy, secrecy, financial interests in the afternoon and evening. Morning: avoid extravagance.

Feb. 19 to March 20 (Pisces)—Get out and mix with people; travel or plan in the afternoon and evening. Recheck impressions in the morning.

Planning ahead—Good for sociability, entertaining, etc.: March 31; April 1, 4, 5, 6, 9.

MONDAY, MARCH 26, 1956

Today's quotation—"He that does good for good's sake seeks neither praise nor reward, though sure of both at last."—William Penn.

Monday for everyone—"Keep things on a basis of simplicity, clarity and understanding. Avoid confusion, extravagance, complications. You will do well if you refrain from staying out late.

Look for Your Birthdate and Birthsign Below

March 21 to April 19 (Aries)—Don't depend upon others; be self-reliant. However, avoid giving offense.

April 20 to May 20 (Taurus)—Continue with present duties and tasks; do not get involved in the problems of others.

May 21 to June 20 (Gemini)—Keep clear of questionable ventures, for they could drain resources. Sidestep risks.

June 21 to July 22 (Cancer)—Try to prevent misunderstandings on the home front, with boss, or parents.

July 23 to Aug. 22 (Leo)—Do the things nearest you. Avoid interruptions; use care en route; be tactful.

Aug. 23 to Sept. 22 (Virgo)—Shun a tendency to impracticality. Defer buying to a better time, if possible. Avoid waste.

Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 (Libra)—Don't promise things; folks are apt to take your snap judgment for your word. Express charm, personality.

Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 (Scorpio)—The day requires keenness on your part. Keep clear of negative conditions.

Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 (Sagittarius)—Use care concerning monetary activities, possessions, friendships. Be discreet, practical.

Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 (Capricorn)—Step warily with temperamental persons; exercise a soothing and conciliatory influence.

Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 (Aquarius)—Keep arrangements flexible in the event that developments require revisions. Have no arguments.

Feb. 19 to March 20 (Pisces)—Be guarded regarding expenditures of money and vitality. Take things as they come.

Planning ahead — Good for sociability, entertaining, etc.: March 31; April 1, 4, 5, 6, 9, 10, 14, 16.

NEWCASTLE-UPON-TYNE, England (UP) — American showgirl Pat Halliday of Anacortes, Wash., will have to leave England without meeting pen pal Brian Jameson, with whom she has corresponded for nine years.

Miss Halliday, 23, arrived in England with the cast of the "Manhattan Cocktail Review" and hurried to Newcastle-Upon-Tyne to meet Jameson, also 23.

She was met at the station by the young man's father who explained that his son, an apprentice engineer aboard a British freighter, is in America.

Point Ellice

Always Controversial

Bridge Rows Span 90 Years

BY JAMES K. NESBITT

Controversy in Victoria about a Point Ellice bridge is nothing new. For more than 90 years, off and on, Victoria's city hall has rocked with argument about Point Ellice.

There was argument in the 1860s when a rough wooden bridge was thrown across the water at that point. There were those who said such a bridge was a waste of public money and that it was in the wrong place.

The first wooden bridge was replaced in the summer of 1885, and again there was argument, many citizens opposing its construction because, they said, such extravagance would send their taxes up. However, the forward-looking won, and a new bridge was built. The Colonist told of its handsomeness: "The piers are of iron against which the greedy marine worm will wear out his teeth in vain efforts to obtain a mouthful."

OPEN TO TRAFFIC

This bridge was opened to traffic in August of 1885: "The new Point Ellice bridge was formally opened to the public—Hon. Mr. Smithe, chief commissioner of lands and works; Hon. John Robson, finance minister and W. S. Gore, surveyor-general, formally opened the bridge on behalf of the government. It is understood that the structure was built for something like $10,000, and any fair-minded individual will say that a remarkably good bridge has been secured for the money."

It was this bridge that, under the weight of crowded street cars on May 24, 1896, crashed into the harbor waters, carrying close to 60 people to their deaths.

Then started another argument about a new bridge. A ferry was operated between the two shores for some months, and in December of 1896, a temporary bridge was built, as noted in The Colonst: "After a long and vexatious delay to the citizens of the western suburbs, the tramcars will today be run through without transfer on the Esquimalt side, crossing the Arm for the first time since the tragedy of last May.

"Yesterday—an official test was made of the stability and carrying capacity of the temporary pile bridge—with the result the structure was proved more than capable of supporting a load far in excess of anything that will ever be put upon it. The experiments were conducted with an ordinary tramcar heavily freighted with iron and lead ballast. There were present—Mayor Bevan and city engineer Wilmot."

This temporary bridge, however, turned out to be fairly permanent, for the citizens frowned on the spending of any more money at Point Ellice and the city fathers couldn't make up their minds. The more cautious wouldn't use the bridge, preferring to go the long way round — via the Gorge road as do the cautious—perhaps the wise—when it comes to using Point Ellice bridge today.

The arguments about a new Point Ellice bridge, raged through the late 1890s, into the turn of the century, through 1901, 1902, 1903.

There were many scenes at city hall: "And still the bridge! At a meeting of the city council there was a heated discussion—the feature of which was a wordy duel between His Worship, Mayor Charles Hayward, and Ald. Yates—at one stage of the proceedings, when Ald. Yates contrived to rise to speak, despite the mayor's ruling that he was out of order, the mayor despatched Mr. Creed for a constable—but before the officer of the law arrived, the matter had been adjusted, and Mr. Bradburn met the policeman and informed him that his services were not required after all."

CONTRACT LET

In due course the contract for a new bridge was let—to a [illegible] Royal Victorians were infuriated, and what a howl they raised because local firms didn't get the job—such a howl that Mayor Hayward quickly acted and vetoed the awarding of the contract.

There were public meetings, first of protest, and then to endorse the mayor's action: "One of the largest meetings ever gathered within the walls of the city hall was held—to discuss Point Ellice bridge contract.

"There were several ladies present who listened to the proceedings with marked attention. A majority of the audience evidently attended with the idea of having all the amusement possible, and sarcastic remarks, hisses, cheers and cat-calls were frequent. It seemed manifest from early in the evening that the meeting was strongly in favor of the mayor's action in vetoing the awarding of the bridge contract."

The new bridge was finally opened in April, 1904, when Harry Barnard was mayor. This is the bridge that has now grown shaky and dangerous and which will be replaced if the taxpayers next month approve the spending of the money.

THE VOICE OF ONE

By REV. DR. FRANK S. MORLEY

"Spiritual healing is the most vital fact in the church today," I told them. "You mean faith-healing?" someone asked me. Looking around the group I could see their scepticism. I had been reviewing Dr. Flanders Dunbar's book on psychosomatic medicine showing the mental factors in disease.

I was astonished. Spiritual healing has been indubitably established by men of the greatest scholarship and character. Dr. Alexis Carrell, one of the world's greatest scientists, winner of the Nordhoff-Jung medal for cancer research, declared that he had seen skin cancer disappear before his very eyes through faith.

Dr. Loring-Swain told a congress on rheumatism, "much of the future progress in the art of healing the body will come along lines that recognize, and have an answer for, the healing of the soul."

Dr. James Buskirk, MD, in "Religion, Healing, and Health" (MacMillan) has a similar opinion. Dr. Alvarez described the vital relationship of body and mind. A man became so enraged by a lawsuit that his heart and kidneys failed. He died in a few months. Dr. Alvarez declared it was "obvious that he died from bodily injuries brought by powerful emotion."

Irreproachable testimony and evidence of spiritual healing is endless in both Britain and America. Dr. Temple had a church "council of healing" comprising all denominations set up in 1944 for investigation purposes. In 1948 the National Council of Churches of Christ in America established a committee on spiritual healing.

Clerics Questioned

In Pastoral Psychology (May, 1954) the committee reported sending out 982 questionnaires to clergymen asking, "Have you ever as a minister attempted to perform a spiritual healing?" Out of 462 replies, 142 gave an unqualified "yes" and 18 qualified their affirmative. Cancer led the list in their healings, followed by heart disease, paralysis, and tuberculosis, with a vast variety of sicknesses.

The current issue of Religion in Life features a symposium. Dr. Weatherhead's "Psychology, Religion, and Healing" (Abingdon Cokesbury) is a major study.

Agnes Sanford is only one example of many who have undoubted healing gifts. She claims anyone can make themselves a channel of healing power. Her book, "The Healing Light (Macalester Park Pub. Co.) is filled with thrilling stories.

Miss Sanford visited a baby girl ill with pneumonia. She knelt beside the crib, placed one hand upon the congested chest and another beneath her back and "soon the waxy frame of the baby was filled with a visible inrushing of new life. Even the hands and feet vibrated, as if an electric current were entering into her. A look of tension on the tiny face was smoothed away and she passed from a semi-conscious condition into a natural sleep."

Two hours later when the doctor entered the room he was startled to have the child ask for a cookie. "My God!" he exclaimed. "What has happened to her?" Miss Sanford adds, "He was right. It was God who had intervened—that was what had happened to her."

At one time illnesses were divided into the wholly emotional, the wholly organic, and those that contained both psychic and organic factors. It was considered that only in psychogenic and emotional disorders did faith operate. This view is no longer tenable.

Unfortunately spiritual healing has been discouraged by abuses. Medical science comes from God. Let us be grateful for the discoveries of fluoridation of water, penicillin and aureomycin, surgical genius, vaccination in lands where parents did not count their children until they had had smallpox, and other countless blessings. People refusing to allow medical aid or religious advisers against medical aid should be held legally liable. On the other hand, doctors refusing to recognize spiritual healing are equally unrealistic.

A major emphasis in our Lord's ministry was healing. He sent His disciples to "heal the sick." The New Testament commands the practice of this healing power. Throughout the entire church history it has been practiced. Unfortunately the church has sometimes allowed this vital part of its gospel to be obscured.

There can be no slightest doubt that the forgiveness of sins, the healing of emotional disorder, the creation of fellowship, and the realization of God, prevent disease and heal disease. Instead of saying, "I'm too sick to go to church," people should say, "I'm sick; therefore I have to go to church."

CITY WIFE SLASHED, BATTERED TO DEATH

Murder Count Faces Husband Found in Strait

Chester Pupkowski, 48, was charged with murder last night six-and-a-half hours after police burst into his quiet home at 128 Clarence street to find the slashed and battered body of his wife, Cecelia, sprawled on the kitchen floor.

While one group of police investigated at the house a second squad was pulling Pupkowski from the waters at Holland point where he had been found beating his head against a log.

"Shoot me, shoot me!" he urged Cpl. Joseph Barlow, who waded into the chilly sea to pull him out.

First hint of the tragedy came at 2.45 p.m. yesterday when neighbors heard wild screams from the Pupkowski home.

Then Chester Pupkowski, smeared with blood, hurried from the house, stumbled down the steep path to the Holland point beach, and waded out to sea.

'I'M GOING TO DIE'

Three boys on the beach shouted at the man as water reached his neck, but he yelled back: "No, I'm going to die anyway!"

One-armed Ernest Busst, sawing driftwood on the beach, dropped his saw and rushed to the sea's edge where Pupkowski struggled, beating his head against a log.

"Come out!" shouted Busst.
"I want to die!" Pupkowski answered.

Busst, unable to pull the man to shore with only one arm, sent a boy for police, who arrived almost immediately.

A neighbor, George Warwick, 122 Clarence, was standing with a friend in his driveway at 2.45 p.m. when he heard the screams from Pupkowski's house.

"Mrs. Pupkowski screamed blue murder for five seconds, but then everything was quiet," Mr. Warwick said.

'I CALLED POLICE'

"I called the police when I saw Pupkowski come out of the house and hurry down the street.

"I climbed in my truck and followed him down toward the beach. There was blood on his face. Several people stared at him.

"He was half running and half walking, and he kept looking straight in front of him."

Twelve-year-old Pat Burton, 314 Huntington place, was lying on the beach enjoying the sun when he saw Pupkowski reach the edge of the sea and wade in.

"He went right on in until the water was up to his neck," the boy said.

"Then he began kicking around in the water. We pushed a log out to him, but he didn't seem to see it.

"He drifted in with the tide and

Mother Lay Dead... ...In Silent House

Violence Comes To Clarence Street

By G. E. MORTIMORE

Clarence street in James Bay is a trim decent byway lined with old houses and apartments.

Mr. and Mrs. Pupkowski at 128 Clarence were among the quiet residents of a drowsy neighborhood.

Few of the other people who lived there knew the Polish couple's tongue-twisting surname, (pronounced "Poopkoska") or even their Christian names — Chester and Cecelia.

Bill Todd, 129 Medina, lived across the back fence from the Pupkowskis for more than a year, and never had occasion to exchange a word with them.

"I've just seen them, never talked to them," said George Courtis, who has lived across the street for more than a year, at 125 Clarence.

"Sometimes I see him out there in the yard, piling the wood, a short fellow with glasses. He never says anything."

"This is a very quite street," said Mrs. W. A. Wilde of 116 Clarence. "Everyone keeps to themselves. She seemed a nice woman. Their little Milo is a funny boy . . . I think he was terrified of his father. The man was the type you wouldn't talk to. He wasn't friendly with anyone."

Their son Milo, 8, is a pupil at South Park school.

About the only people in the neighborhood who knew Mrs. Pupkowski were Mr. and Mrs. Pruno Pronebner, 540B Niagara street, at the corner of Clarence and Niagara.

Both Mrs. Hedy Pronebner and Mrs. Pupkowski worked at the Empress Hotel. Mrs. Pronebner works in the coffee shop. Mrs. Pupkowski was a vegetable cook in the kitchen.

"She was very nice and very kind," Mrs. Pronebner said. "A hard worker. He was ill. She supported the family. They came from Germany. She's Polish. She had another boy who died in Germany."

She Was Always Tired

"She was pretty tired all the time," Mr. Pronebner put in. "She worked morning and evening. She worked somewhere else on her days off. She had to meet the payments on the house. They moved in last year and I heard they were buying it."

They said they greeted Mr. Pupkowski now and then, but he made no sign that he had heard, so they stopped trying.

"I've seen him working, but I didn't talk to him," Mrs. Pronebner said. "He was quiet. She never introduced us to him."

And so the quiet Polish couple went about their business: the husband silent, unfriendly, moving about the yard of the old yellow and brown house with head down, greeting no one; the wife working hard, sometimes at two jobs, to keep the family going; the little boy Milo, small for his age but lively; not on very close terms with other boys and girls in the district.

Mr. Pupkowski collapsed on the street just over a week ago and was taken to St. Joseph's hospital. He was believed to have suffered a heart attack.

He was examined by a doctor who had never seen him before, and kept in the hospital under observation. A psychiatrist also saw the patient, who seemed to be "in a nervous state."

Mr. Pupkowski was discharged from the hospital Friday because he had no apparent heart disease.

George E. Warwick, who lives with his father, A. C. Warwick, at 122 Clarence street, next door to the Pupkowskis, told of two happenings that seemed to show that all was not well at his neighbors' house.

George Warwick said the little boy Milo came over to borrow a flashlight, which he called a "battery." The house was locked, and he wanted to get in through the basement, but he seemed afraid. So George Warwick went with him, and helped him get in.

Another time, Chester Pupkowski asked George Warwick to call the police because "there's two bandits in the house."

"He was waving a big long pole. I called the police. Then he wanted me to tell the cops what had happened. But I didn't understand him.

"There were no bandits in the house."

In the big, steamy kitchen of the Empress Hotel, Mrs. Pupkowski's fellow-employees were expecting her in to work at 3.30 p.m. yesterday as usual. "She works a split shift," said Peter Pizag, 415 Heather.

"She seems to keep cheerful, even though she told us her husband was in hospital," said John Berkshire, assistant night chef.

They didn't know that they had seen the stout-hearted Polish woman for the last time.

On the porch of the old yellow and brown house which Cecilia Pupkowski had struggled to buy, a policeman stood guard.

And then two ambulance men carried out a blanket-shrouded figure on a stretcher, and drove away from Clarence street.

Canucks Here Tuesday

Hot Cougar Squad Grabs Third Win As Pelletier Shines

Victoria Cougars last night became the first club to qualify for the best-of-seven final in the Western Division of the Western Hockey League.

Getting a great performance from goalkeeper Marcel Pelletier, the Cougars defeated the Royals at New Westminster, 3-1. It was their third straight victory in the double round-robin series and assured them of no worse than a point tie when the remaining two games are completed.

Royals have one win in three games and the champion Vancouver Canucks have lost two games. Canucks play here Tuesday night and at New Westminster Wednesday night. If the two clubs should wind up in a point tie, the club with the most goals will meet the Cougars. Canucks can make it by winning both their games. Royals by defeating the Canucks.

If the Cougars defeat the Canucks Tuesday and the Canucks then beat Royals Wednesday, goals scored will decide. (Complete details Page 10.)

Girl's Coma Reaches Full Week

Four-year-old Doreen Sanders, 236 Cadillac, completed her seventh unconscious day last night since receiving serious head injuries when she was in collision with a car last Sunday.

She was crossing the road in front of Centennial United church on Gorge road when the accident occurred.

Fluoridation Wins Vote Nine to One

PORTLAND (AP)—Practising physicians in Oregon favor by a 9 to 1 margin the fluoridation of drinking water supplies to reduce tooth decay in children.

Results of a statewide survey on the question were announced Saturday by the Public Policy Committee of the Oregon State Medical Society. The survey indicated that 1,081 doctors favor fluoridation, 116 oppose it and 10 are "undecided."

On Way Out?

TIM BUCK

Canadian Communists are alarmed and despondent over the new Soviet character assassination of Stalin, Colonist Ottawa correspondent reports on Page 6. He states in an exclusive dispatch that Tim Buck's leadership of the Canadian Communist party may be in the balance as a result.

ImmigrantStabbed, Dies; 'Giant' Held

Colonist Correspondent

VANCOUVER—A 29-year-old Belgian newcomer to Canada died in hospital from deep knife wounds late yesterday.

Police said Raymond Duchateau, of 891 Chilco street, was stabbed in the Rogers hotel beer parlor by a man who had been sitting at the next table.

SUDDEN ATTACK

They said Duchateau had been talking animatedly in French with a number of French and Belgian friends when the man suddenly jumped up from the next table and plunged a knife into his stomach. The man had taken no part in the discussion at Duchateau's table, police stated.

An 18-year-old suspect described as "a giant, well over six feet tall," was arrested and held for investigation shortly after the 4 p.m. stabbing.

Police said the suspect left the hotel in a cab shortly after the attack took place and was traced through the cab driver's report.

No reason for the assault was known last night. Criminal investigations branch detective sergeant Charlie Campbell, in charge of the investigation, said the knife used was still being searched for.

Harding Puts Iron Curfew On Cypriots

NICOSIA, Cyprus (R — Field Marshal Sir John Harding Saturday night ordered an ironclad curfew on the 13 main towns and cities of Cyprus as this rebellious island approached the zero hour of Greek Independence Day celebrations.

The British governor imposed the curfew, effective from 4 a.m. Sunday until further notice, with the intention of firmly preventing any outbreak of violence on the 135th anniversary of Greek independence from Turkey.

Upward of 160,000 persons were placed under virtual house arrest by the order. All persons in the 13 towns and cities must stay indoors during the curfew.

All vehicles were banned from the streets.

'Bridey Murphy' Probe Made Public

Ever since the provocative story of "The Search for Bridey Murphy" rocked North America, readers have been waiting for an on-the-spot check of the facts in modern-day Ireland.

The check has now been completed by a competent reporter, William J. Barker of The Denver Post and a series of articles start today in The Daily Colonist, where the Bridey Murphy story was told for the first time in Canada.

"The Truth About Bridey Murphy" today is on Page 16.

'Good Neighbors' Meeting Monday

WASHINGTON (CP)—President Eisenhower on Monday will open with Prime Minister St. Laurent and President Adolfo Ruiz Cortines of Mexico a two-day conference which is being advertised officially as a good neighborly, get-acquainted parley.

The three heads of government, meeting Eisenhower's suggestion, will get together late Monday at White Sulphur Springs, West Virginia resort town nestled in the Allegheny mountains about 250 miles southwest of Washington.
